Hood luck in the future

I can't believe that we made it through Ball, Tish, Fern etc. We've really had some awkward times. Remember when I told Ball where to go? We laughed about that all year. Since you're going to S.M.'s next year, I know we will all catch each other there and get into more trouble! Maybe we'll get another teacher like Simmons? (Goodnight!)

Come on in . . . Be a Part Bennett Of the Excellent Curriculum

The academic courses offered at Parkview have many different aspects. Some are the foundation for continued study in college; some are preparation for vocations immediately following high school. All are intended to aid in the personal development of the individual: to give resources for creative use of leisure time, an awareness of the responsibilities of citizenship, and an understanding of one's own personality.

Students learn through varied activities, such as presenting demonstration talks in speech classes, arranging flowers in home economics, making useful items in shop classes, solving problems in mathematics classes.

The curriculum at Parkview is designed to meet the individual needs and interests of the students, to challenge them to the extent of their scholastic ability, and to offer them an opportunity for successful achievement.

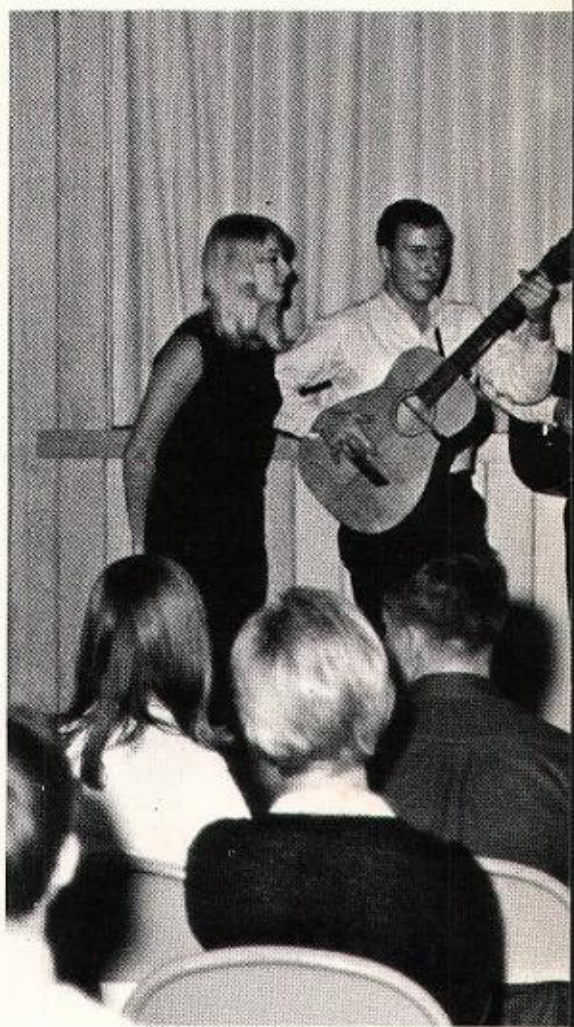

Paula - I got the right look now

Come on in . . . Be a Part Of the Fun and the Activity

The year got off to a rousing start with the introduction of "Papa Viking" at the "Hi Vike" assembly. Enthusiasm was encouraged by the members of the Key Club as they sold colorful ribbons to the Parkview students before each home sports event. The Student Center was frequently the setting for a mixer or for the installation of officers of one of the clubs which also filled their calendars with programs, field trips, banquets, and conventions on local, district, state, and national levels.

The band, cheerleaders, and Lassies added much to the spirit of Parkview and to the prestige of the school. On hand for pep assemblies and on the field for football games, these groups brought additional color and excitement. The colorful half-time ceremony at the Viking Festival game was climaxed with the announcement that Chrissy Simon had been elected as Viking Queen to reign over the last half of the game with William Chrisman. Triumphant Vikings joined their Queen for the coronation ceremony and the Queen's dance which were features of the Victory Dance after the game.

Paula,
 The years passed fast didn't they. We have a lot of good times to remember. All those classes we had together. Try to get along without High School.

Doors are open at Parkview, open to everyone to be a vital part of the student body.

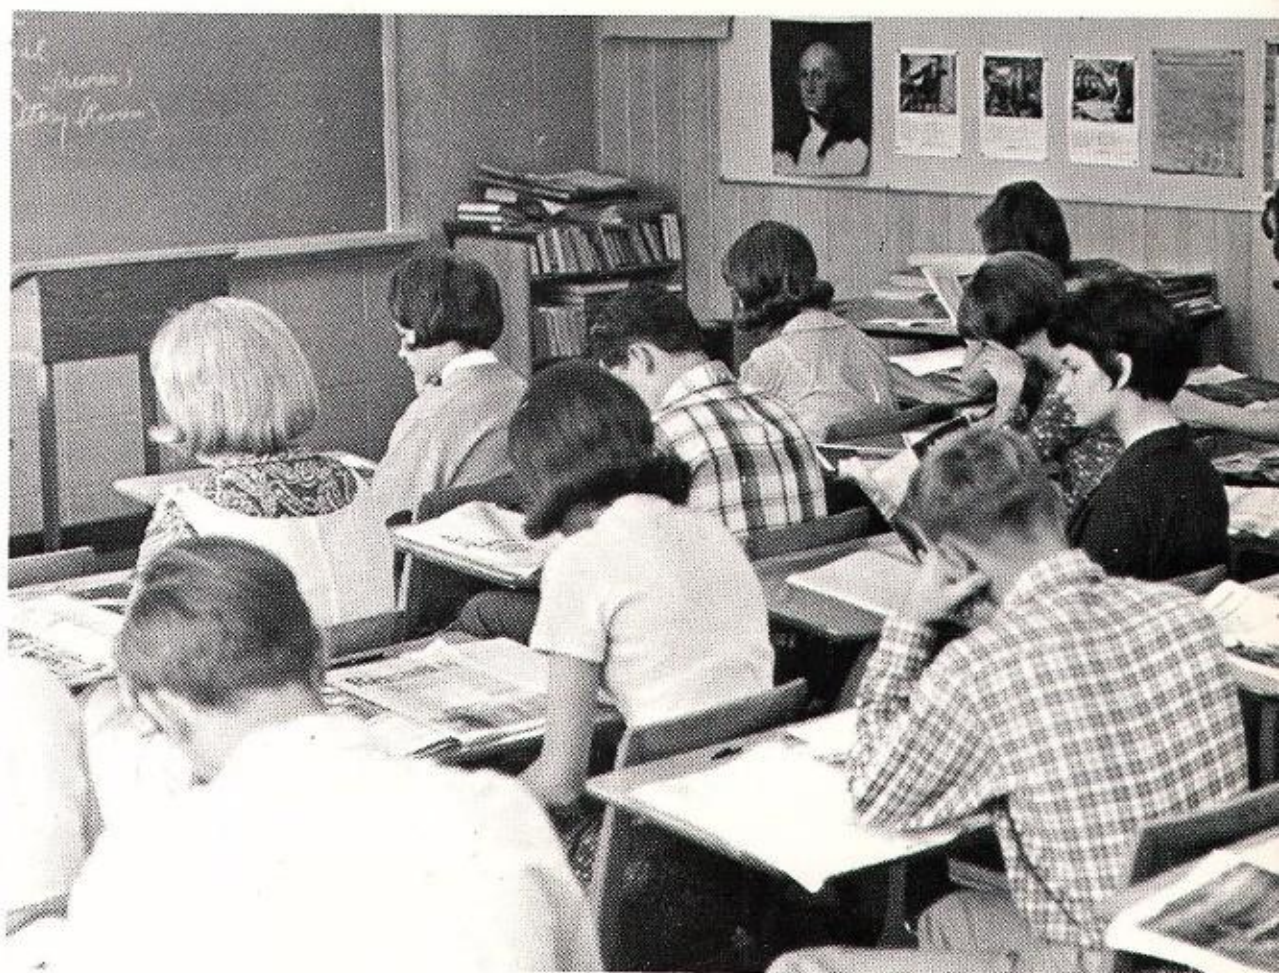

These open doors symbolize many things: the opportunities available to every student through classroom learning in many different fields, the fun and rewarding experiences in experiences in extra-curricular activities, and the personal growth acquired through social events and athletic competition.

The Viking Log has recorded the work of the classroom, the activity of the clubs and organizations, and the achievements of the athletes. The staff has also endeavored to recapture the fun and excitement that goes along with being a student at Parkview. The pages of the 1967 Viking Log invite you—Come on in . . . be a part.

CURRICULUM

Come on in . . . be a part. Being a part of school life at Parkview centers around the classroom. The curriculum offers a wide variety of subjects to correspond with each student's special interest, ability, and goals. The primary purpose of the faculty and the curriculum is to prepare each student to be a successful part of today's increasingly complex world.

The required courses give the individual student the basic knowledge needed as a foundation for his career, while the numerous elective classes provide specialized training to suit each student's personal needs. The vocational classes give students an opportunity to explore job possibilities and to meet employment requirements.

This year new textbooks in some areas of study, changing emphasis through the addition of new courses, and constant upgrading of teacher preparation through the teachers' continued study in graduate schools made the students' curricular experiences effective preparation for adulthood.

Administrative Team Emphasizes Individual Needs

To provide for the 24,500 students who are enrolled in the 42 elementary schools, including kindergartens, the seven junior highs, the four senior highs, and the Vocational-Technical School which offers 90 adult night classes in addition to its regular daytime program is the main concern of the Board of Education.

The members of the Board, who are elected by the citizens, are entrusted with the responsibility for working with professional educators to provide for the intellectual, physical, and social needs of the students. The Board works closely with Dr. Willard Graff, the superintendent of schools and the executive officer for the Board of Education, to adjust the program to meet the needs of a growing community in a changing society.

The Board is aware that the growth of the city is a major factor in the growth of the schools. In their planning, therefore, members must consider such factors as new industry, urban renewal, residential development, mobility of local population, and the rate of increase in over-all student population to determine the future needs of the students.

Since providing adequate facilities, competent teachers, and educational opportunities for all students is a major task which requires far more than attendance at a meeting once each month, Board members spend much of their own time away from their businesses and professions on school business.

Their only compensation for this work is the knowledge of the important contribution they make to the community and to the nation and the well-deserved appreciation of the citizens and students whom they serve.

BOARD OF EDUCATION ... Front Row: Henry W. DeBruin, Turner White, president; William Magers. Second Row: Dr. Willard Graff, Dr. Arch Lowe, Jr., Dr. G. B. Lemmon, Jr., vice-president; Franklin Gamble (above). The Administrative Services Center, in its second year of use, was not only a complex of offices for administrative personnel, but its conference and assembly rooms were at the service of school groups for intra-city meetings, of the Springfield Education Association, and of the community as the Parent-Teachers Council and the Board of Education met there.

Willard J. Graff
Superintendent

The Teachers' Advisory Council, made up of representatives elected by each faculty in the system, met regularly with Dr. Graff in the assembly room of the Administrative Services Center to discuss professional questions.

A deep respect for young people, a sincere concern for the welfare of each as an individual and an abiding faith in their integrity as tomorrow's citizens are basic to any decision made by Dr. Graff.

Although he has many demands on his time and energy, the door to Dr. Graff's office is open to any student, patron, or staff member, and any problem pertaining to the welfare of the individual or to the educational program is treated with respect and concern.

A great deal of Dr. Graff's success lies in his ability to attract qualified personnel. He brings to his position a respect for the professional staff, a deep understanding of school problems, a perspective which enables him to get at the heart of a problem, and a leadership which establishes a dynamic educational atmosphere.

Providing quality educational opportunities to meet the needs of the individual in a changing world is his prime concern. Through his leadership, the school system has kept pace with the growing need for additional school facilities and for an educational program ranging from vocational preparation to college preparatory courses.

Dr. Graff's qualities of leadership have been recognized throughout the nation. Last summer he was awarded an honorary doctor's degree by Drury College. He was elected president-elect of the Missouri State Teachers Association last fall and will serve as association president for the 1967-68 year. He has served on numerous education committees including the Planning Committee of the Governor's Conference on Education last fall. He is president of the 40 Club, an organization of superintendents in 12 Midwestern states. He is a past president of the Missouri Association of School Administrators.

In addition to his educational interests, Dr. Graff is active in church and civic work.

Throughout his many interests, however, the educational opportunities for young people remain uppermost.

ADMINISTRATIVE BOARD ... Front Row: Mrs. Hazel Ponder, director of personnel services; Dr. A. M. Alexander, assistant superintendent for secondary education; Dr. Graff; Dr. Roy Little, assistant superintendent for elementary education; David Berryman, director of vocational, technical, and industrial education. Second Row: Joe Grant, director of building services; John J. Sweeney, director of pupil services; Dr. Joe Kuklenski, director of curriculum development; and Kenneth Kraft, director of business services.

Dr. A. M. Alexander
Assistant Superintendent

To his position as Assistant Superintendent for Secondary Education, Dr. Alexander brings the warmth of a friend and the dignity of a truly professional administrator.

Dr. Alexander was delegated responsibility in the areas of personnel, supervision, and instruction. His depth of understanding of educational problems and his professional approach in working with both lay and professional people contribute to his effectiveness as an educational leader.

Fundamental to his educational leadership is a profound respect for the individual. His concept of education as a "builder of people" is basic to the decisions he makes in planning an educational program for young people.

Dr. Joe Kuklenski, director of curriculum development, discussed with members of the Curriculum Council and the Instructional Council some of the current trends in curriculum as the group met to exchange ideas in a continuing effort to provide the kind of educational experiences needed.

Administrators, Teachers, Students Unite Efforts

Mr. Fred Balden, Parkview principal; Mr. James Ford, Glendale principal; Dr. Alexander, Mr. Ralph Hamilton, Central principal; and Mr. William Gist, Hillcrest principal, (top) met regularly to discuss the activities of the high schools and to work in the interests of the students and the faculties. Dr. Alexander's meetings with Student Council members from the four senior highs provided students and administrators with the opportunity to discuss problems of mutual concern (above). Dr. Alexander (left) received Parkview's report of its Student Council work from PHS student body president, Turner White, with approving consensus evidenced by Tedda King, Intra-City Council representative; Mr. Warren Mathes, Student Council sponsor; Bud Rice, student body vice-president; and Mr. Balden.

Fred Balden
Principal

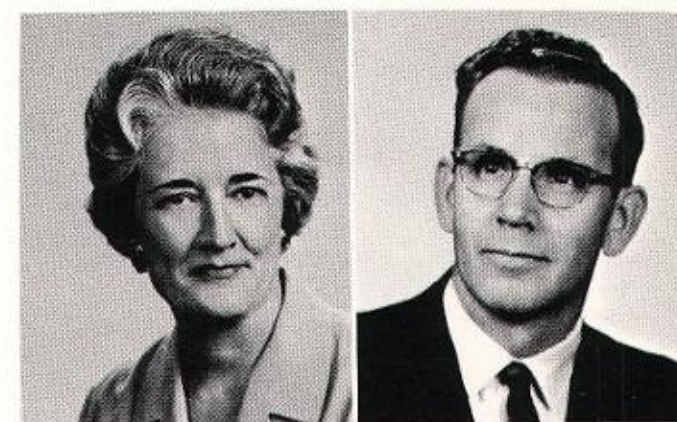

Charles Espy
Assistant Principal

In their second year as principal and assistant principal of Parkview, Mr. Fred Balden and Mr. Charles Espy served the school with dedication and enthusiasm.

Mr. Balden led Parkview to new heights in scholarship and in extra-curricular activities. He was deeply concerned with keeping Parkview's outstanding reputation and worked with the good of the school always uppermost in his mind. His friendliness and ability made him a popular principal as well as an effective one.

During the year, Mr. Espy worked closely with the principal, the staff and the Student Council to make Parkview a school of which to be proud. He helped plan each assembly and sponsored the Key Club in all of its activities. He kept the school informed on all meetings, procedures, and important events through the daily announcements. Mr. Espy's interest in all functions of the school and his capability as an administrator were warmly appreciated by the students.

Miss Lena Davison
Administrative Assistant

Kenneth Frederickson
Administrative Assistant

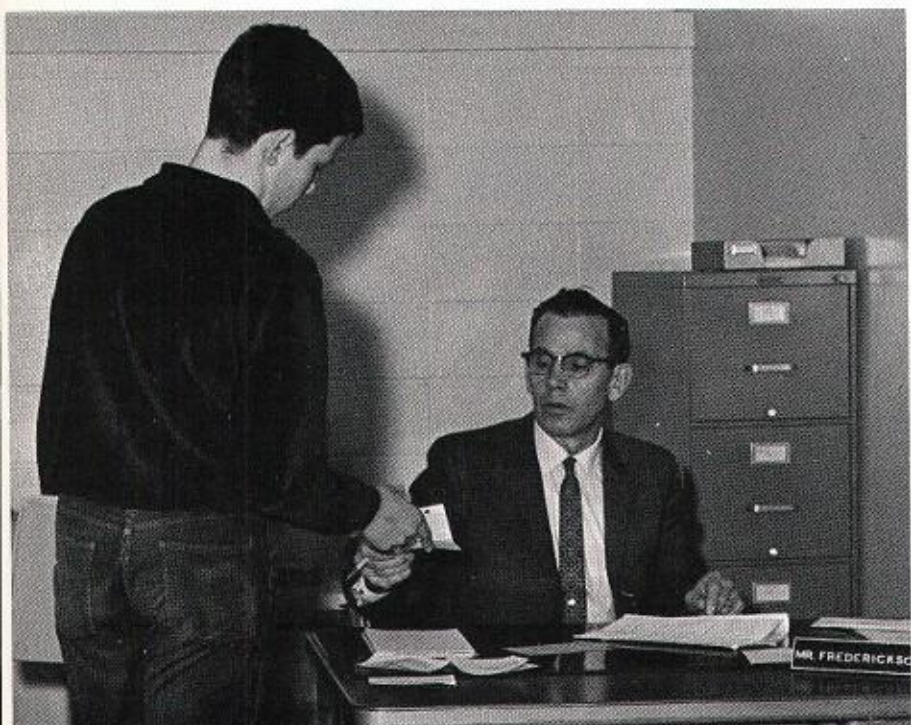

PARENT-TEACHERS EXECUTIVE BOARD ... Mr. Fred Balden, second vice-president; Mrs. M. J. Gosnell, first vice-president; Mrs. Ransom Ellis, secretary; Mrs. Harold Kerr, president; and Mrs. Sam Gardner, treasurer, had a look at one of the woodwork machines, part of the equipment on display when the Parkview PTA held its meeting in January at the Vocational-Technical School and toured the plant.

Students Their Joint Concern

"To Know Is to Grow" was the program theme of Parkview's Parent-Teachers Association and an unusual variation in their meetings as the group held one meeting at the Vocational-Technical School where members were briefed on the courses offered and advantages of the program and also conducted through the building to see the facilities.

New titles and new offices came to Miss Lena Davison and Mr. Kenneth Frederickson as they were designated administrative assistants. In this role they assisted teachers, counselors, and administrators with guidance and pupil personnel problems. They served as the primary disciplinary officers of the school.

Work permits, permission slips to leave school, records dealing with attendance and tardies all came within their jurisdiction as they worked with students and teachers.

Parkview's counselors performed a diversity of tasks during the course of this year.

They provided guidance to students in forming their plans for the future and in handling the problems of high school life. They offered assistance in the selection of a college, in application for scholarships, and in investigation of job opportunities.

The counselors administered group diagnostic tests and held conferences with the students to evaluate their performance and potential, whether they were considering certain courses for their study in high school or contemplating particular colleges or vocations. They also kept extensive records to provide information to other schools, teachers, or prospective employers.

The counselors were always available for conferences with students, their parents, or teachers. They were concerned with student academic achievement, their attendance, attitude, personal problems, and goals.

Conferences with students on scheduling, scholarship applications, and individual problems were held by the counselors. Mr. Craig Sobotka (right) worked on an admission form, submitted by a senior, and Miss Lucille Dugan talked with Gary Welsh (below) about scheduling for his senior year.

Scheduling students for next year was one of the biggest tasks counselors faced this year. New Approach Replaces Old

Students of English received their first taste of a new approach to grammar this year with the introduction of the structural-linguistic approach to the English language.

The aim of the new method was to correlate better the spoken language with the written forms of grammar. The structural viewpoint supports the fact that language is speech and therefore speech is the proper subject for study.

New emphasis was placed on audio-visual aids in the English department this year with the innovation of the Encyclopedia-Britannica Series of films. The new films were used as aids in study of the major classical literary periods in the English III and IV classes.

A new visual aid on the English I and II levels was the Tachomatic projector and films to aid the student in reading development. These were aids in increasing both reading rate and comprehensive skill.

English IV composition classes received new books which stressed a practical approach to the traditional subject, and English IV literature texts this year gave added emphasis to contemporary authors and works.

English Classes Stress Use of Language

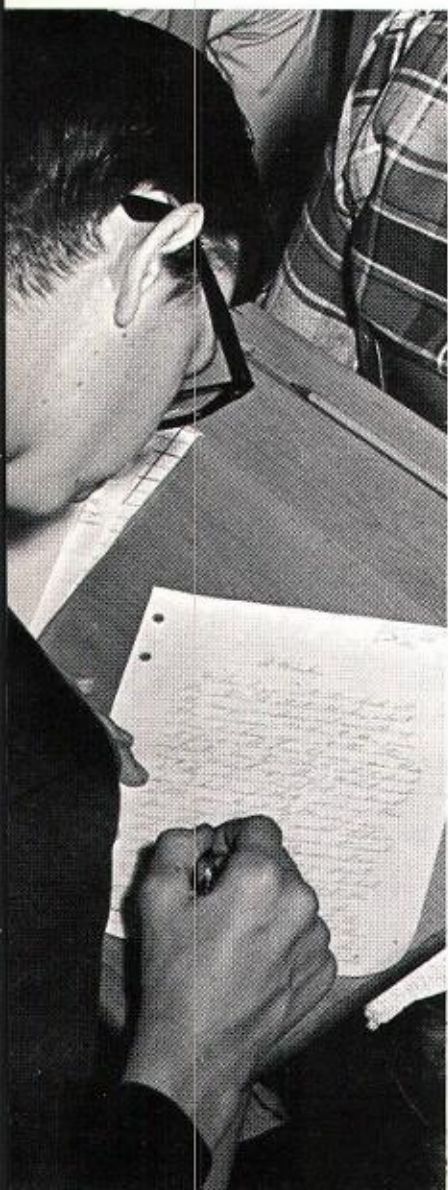

Seeking for the right phrase, Larry Hunt (left) gave concentrated attention to his theme in his English IVL class. To the English and American literature study was added consideration of popular contemporary writing and students of Mrs. Fern Simmons (below) were able to discuss differences in form and style following examination of current magazines.

Linda Biellier (left) waited with expectant interest the answer to her question on the literature assignment in her English III class. Research combined with oral presentation in Karen Stout's report on the life of Pablo Casals given in the sophomore English class of Mrs. Mary Boschen (above).

Dramatic reading added interest and understanding to the study of Romeo and Juliet as Mike Johnson, Kerry Keller, and Brent Chan (right) assumed roles during their study of the play in Mrs. Grace Stone's English I class. Students of Mrs. Ferne Westbrooke (below) knew exactly how they stood on the grading scale as they counted up the points they had earned. Written assignments meant papers to be prepared and handed in in the English II class of Mrs. Joyce Brauer (bottom) as students reviewed for a test.

Mrs. Nancy Kerr provided the extra guidance and assistance to Bob Fleming (above) that he needed to complete his English assignment. David Talent (left) found that expressing his thoughts and feelings on paper required an occasional pause in his English I class for reflection.

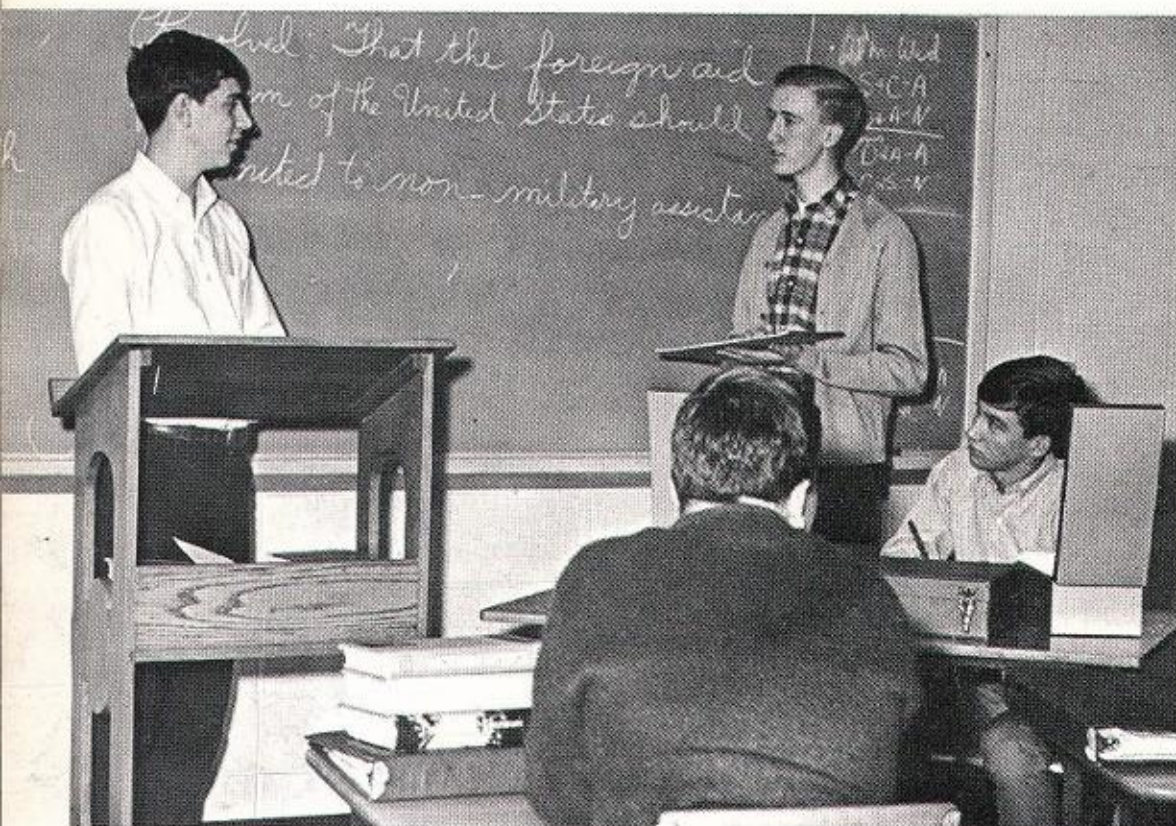

Trophies overflowed available space as the speech and debate squads carried home awards from the eleven tournaments they attended.

Parkview also hosted one of the largest tournaments in the state with thirty-five schools, representing Missouri, Kansas, and Arkansas, attending. Fundamentals of speech students assisted the public speaking students in conducting the tournament. The speech department, working in the fields of debate, oratory, duet acting, extemporaneous speaking, poetry and dramatic interpretation, gave students skill in gathering evidence, in reasoning, and in self-expression and provided experience in oral presentation.

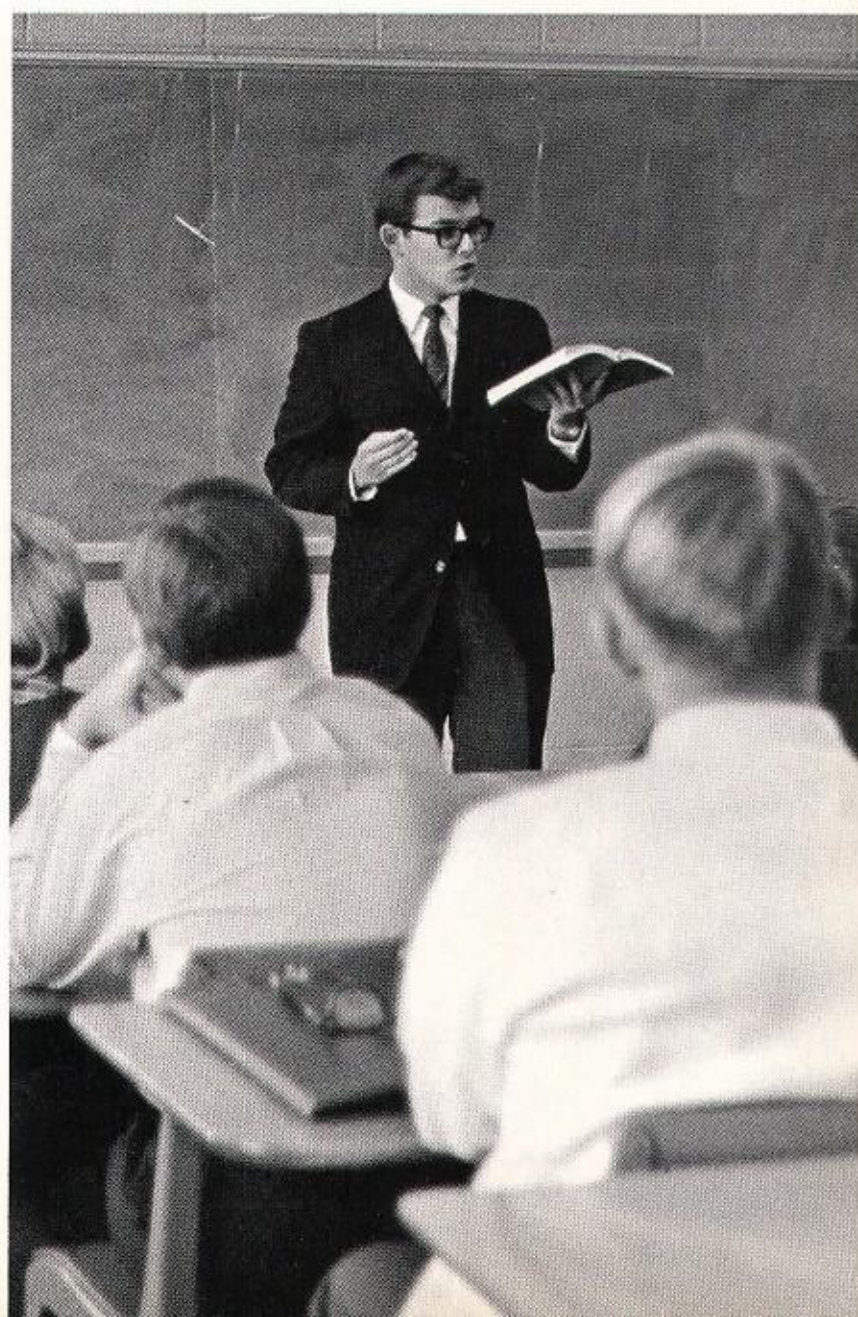

For the first time, this year the dramatics department added an evening of one-act plays, presented to the public by each of the dramatics classes, to other activities which included an assembly, acts in the all-school talent and the exchange assemblies, and roles in the operetta and senior class play.

Class work included play reviews, dramatic interpretations, and study of scenery construction and staging techniques. Two modern films and the Little Theater production of The King and I added depth to the students' understanding and appreciation of drama.

What to do when the Sweepstakes trophy seems to be missing was the problem of Steve Hilton and Artie McNeese, debate chairmen, and Carolyn Gist, general chairman of Parkview's speech tournament.

Neophyte debater David Alley pointed out to Pat McCammon that he was not meeting the topic "Resolved: That the foreign aid program of the United States should be limited to non-military assistance" as Artie McNeese followed the cross-examination. Mr. Ron Seney, student teacher, gave a dramatic interpretation demonstration for a speech fundamentals class.

Speech and Drama Students Mix Study with Action

William Shakespeare might have been quite surprised with the interpretation of a scene from his play As You Like It, given in the sixth-hour dramatics class. Cathy Turner, Nancy Gose, and Ted Andrews presented the scene using home-made props and vivid imaginations.

Cast members set up court in the Little Theater to practice for the presentation of the one-act play "Her Alienated Affections" (above), but then the set had to be constructed on the stage in the gym which required the manual efforts of Tom Lefmann and the "witness-chair" supervision of Mike Lopez.

"Did you notice that headline in last night's paper?" "What do you think of this idea for an editorial?"

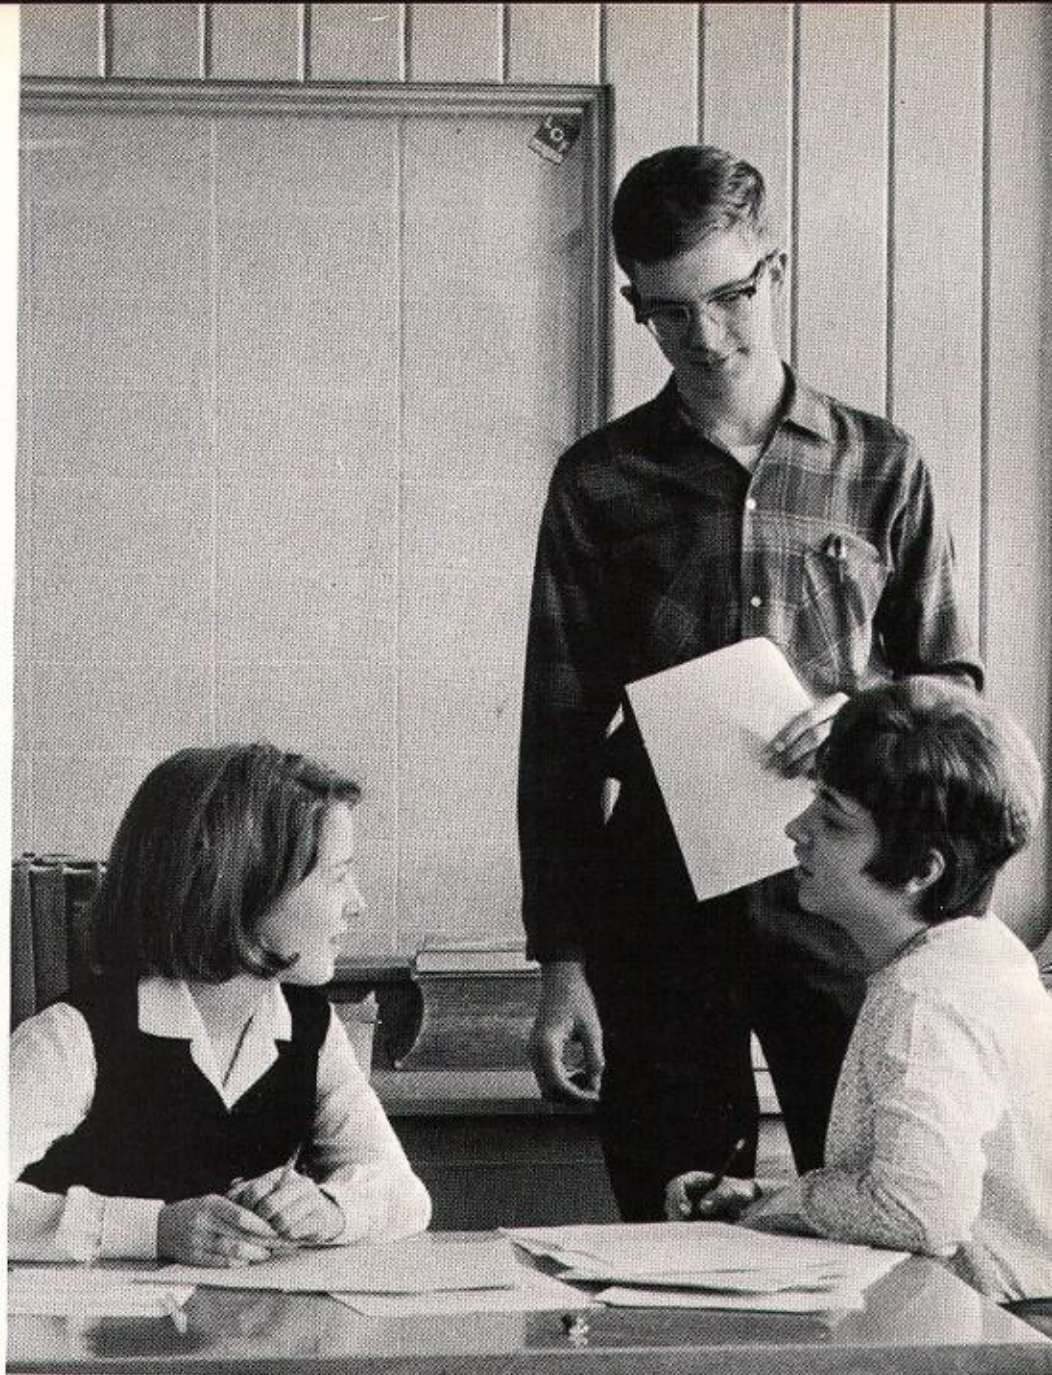

The journalism room buzzed with shop talk. Proud of the standards set in previous years by The Parkviewer and the Viking Log, and working constantly for improvement, the students were critically concerned with the quality of their writing and of the copy published.

They, therefore, became increasingly sensitive to the techniques used by the professional media. Desks of editors were frequently buried under magazines and newspapers as they looked for new ideas in coverage and style and for new trends in layout.

This year, for the first time Journalism I students took over two editions of the weekly newspaper and found the experience both frightening and enlightening.

Amid the clatter of typewriters and the pressure of deadlines, the students worked steadily toward greater skill in reporting and writing, discussed vigorously the privileges and responsibilities of the communications media, and considered the vocational opportunities.

Keeping the students and the community informed concerning the activities of Parkview required the co-ordinated planning and work of Peggy Hogan, editor-in-chief, Rick Hoover, news bureau editor; and Willene Davidson, associate editor of The Parkviewer.

Pictures and words were assembled into layouts for pages of the Viking Log. Suzy Frink, Lynda Allgeier, Carolyn Mahan (front row) and Charlotte Pritchard (back row), associate editors, worked with Linda Pruett, editor, and the journalism students in creating this record of the school year.

News Is the Name of the Game

David Woosley, exchange manager, prepared copies of The Parkviewer to mail to advertisers and other schools. Pat McCammon, circulation manager, oversaw the distribution of the paper within the school. Together they were responsible for distribution of 2,300 copies weekly.

Parkview students were preparing for life in a communications-conscious world as they studied one or more of the three foreign languages offered in the curriculum.

The cultures, lives, and people who used the language, as well as the language itself, were part of this study. In addition to work in their textbooks, students used tapes and recordings, sang songs, heard guests from abroad, delved into the literature, and participated in creative class activities.

The Roman Empire provided a rich background for Latin I and Latin II classes. Students put their knowledge to work in written assignments and their togas to work in skits presented in the classroom.

French, I, II, III, and IV students added correspondence with European pen pals to their other activities in order to broaden their understanding of another culture and to increase their skill in handling the language. Advanced students shared the responsibility of teaching, taking turns in directing grammar drills each week.

The colorful world of bullfights and fiestas flashed around Spanish I, II, and III students. Learning to think in a new language was enlivened by class-created dramas and the intrigue and excitement of unravelling a "Kaotic" plot.

Mickey Federow, a Mexican Maxwell Smart, chased Bob Wickizer who had just eliminated the contact, Gary High (right). By fortunate coincidence the Kaos plot was foiled, according to the script of narrator Rita Simmonds, as bureau chief Tom Peck received the picture that solved the case. (above).

Other Languages Are Put in Use

Polished Performance Demands Practice

Miss Dorothy Rathbone, with Bob Ollis at the piano, painstakingly rehearsed the junior-senior choir numbers. The band practiced with equal diligence, under the direction of Mr. Dan Palen, the numbers it would perform at assemblies, football games, and concerts. Performance before a spell-bound student body proved that the hours of practice by orchestra and choir members had been effective. Especially nice was the fact that a record taped by Mr. Joe H. Higgins, Century Records, preserved the concert.

Parkview's music department provides students with many opportunities to perform various types of music.

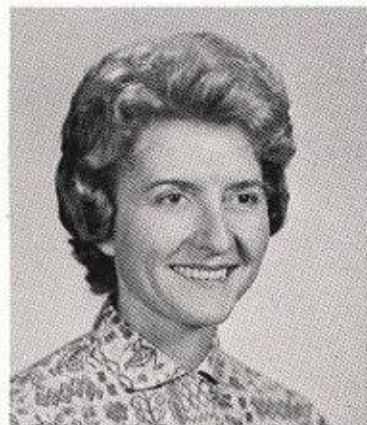

The instrumental and vocal music departments combined three times this year for public performances which were enthusiastically received. The first concert, "Music You Like to Hear," was presented by the choir and orchestra in December. These organizations were joined by the sophomore chorus and the newly-organized brass choir in the annual Christmas program. In February the concert band presented its annual program, and the music and dramatics departments presented the musical, Tom Sawyer, in March.

To preserve their excellent performances, records were made which were available to the musicians, their families, and friends.

The foundation of the professional quality of the concerts was laid through the total music program of the public schools and through Parkview's freshman chorus, sophomore choir, and the cadet band and orchestra.

Art Fosters Creativity

MaDonna Robinson posed for an experiment in portraiture by Kris Gilbert and Lynn Stevens (below), and Doug Stevenson and Patsy Richardson concentrated on their execution of a still life (at right). Occasionally, however, someone sat down on the job, and when the time came to put their work on display, Stevia Paine (below center) was that someone, temporarily at rest.

Flexible—that word keynoted the art program. The classes looked at new ideas and techniques in addition to studying awareness, elementary design and the creative process. The halls of the school took on the look of an art gallery as students displayed their work.

Art I students were introduced to the uses and combinations of line, shape, and color. They studied the lives and work of famous artists and attempted to express themselves in the media.

Art II delved more deeply into awareness and design and students devoted more time to their own creativity. Art III was primarily exploration with the emphasis on original conception and the creative execution by the students.

Nancy Richardson carefully selected the perfect tack to hang the perfect picture in the "sidewalk" art display in the halls (center right), and Patricia Pittman demonstrated the versatility of line with her pensive portrait (at right).

Safe and sane was emphasized in the required course of driver training. Sophomores learned the art of keeping calm and keeping control while behind the wheel.

Drivo-trainer units, which simulated all kinds of driving situations and emergencies, and supervised excursions on the street in the drivers' training cars supplemented the students' studies on maintenance and operation of automobiles.

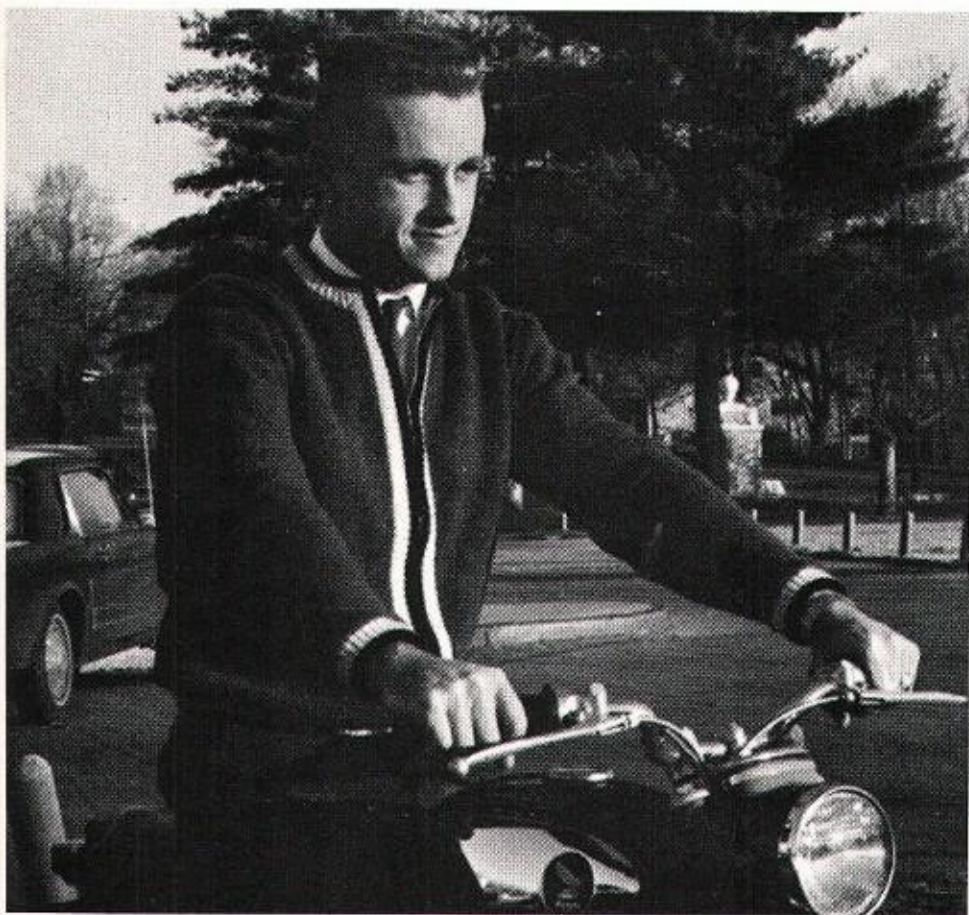

New this year was a short course on how to maintain safe procedures in traffic that involved the increasingly popular motorbikes.

Introductory first-aid instruction was provided with films and demonstrations in the classroom.

By the time the course was finished, the students were ready for any emergency encountered in driving.

Goal Is Safety on Wheels

Drivers' education students also studied first aid with films, charts, and demonstrations supplementing. Mr. Harlin Hutsell (right) discussed the various ways of carrying the injured.

The motorbike craze even got the teachers! Mr. Clifford McLain demonstrated with one of the bikes used in the motorbike safety unit added in drivers' education. An on-the-street driver worked to master the art of b-a-c-k-i-n-g.

Discussions, research into old documents and books, and textbook study all were important in the study of the world and the United States.

Freshman citizenship classes developed an interest in city, state, and national government by doing class projects on such subjects as the stock market and the United Nations.

World History and Cultures, a new text for world history, and new supplementary books for American history made these required courses lively and interesting. Tape recorders were used frequently in these courses.

The Pic-mobile, a filmstrip projector, a television set, and a tape recorder helped immensely in making history an enlightening subject. Increased use of films in the Little Theater and in the classroom also helped students to visualize what they were studying.

Mr. William Kimberling was the new departmental co-ordinator. He taught required classes as well as American heritage, an elective. Sociology, psychology, American problems, world geography, and economics were also available as electives for upperclassmen.

Israel: what? where? how? why? Simone Lotven provided answers in a world history report (left) to her class, taught by Mrs. Ruth Kelley. Obviously, Mr. Junior Roweton's citizenship students (below) had studied the Missouri Constitution well and eagerly volunteered to answer his questions.

Mr. Stanley Banasik (above) explained the working of the stock market to citizenship students. Ticker tape carrying market quotations was also used by the class to demonstrate the market's fluctuations.

Students in Miss Rae Jean Kanehl's world history class (at right) studied the American Observer to extend their knowledge of world problems. Frances Cooke, while giving a report in Mr. George Buckler's American problem's class, displayed a hood belonging to her great-grandfather, an Imperial Wizard of the Virginia Ku Klux Klan. Her report traced the origin of the Klan, its purpose, and the reason for its dissolution in Virginia.

After spending the summer in North Africa, the Near East, and Southern Europe, Miss Sarah Alice Liggett, no arm-chair traveler, had many personal contributions to make to the study of world history and world geography. Students of Mr. Beecher Sheeley's world history class (above) sought information through study of the text.

Laboratories Enrich Study

How fast does water erode rocks? Mr. Wayne Gibson (below) gave assistance to his earth science students as they compared weight losses of rocks after shaking them in a bottle of water. Is it a plant or an animal? Mike Clough (right) knows it's hard to tell with some denizens of the microscopic world. What percentage of Parkview's lawn is crab grass? Susan Haynes was able to tell after working with a point frame (far right). The frame is used to find frequency, density, and cover of the various types of vegetation.

Amidst books, microscopes, reports, scales, slide rules, tables, and paper, science students investigated the phenomena of their planet.

Earth science replaced general science this year in the curriculum. The earth's history recorded in rocks, the wonders of weather, and the mysteries of the starry sky were all part of the classes' study.

Lectures, laboratory sessions, tests, and even a test-tube Christmas tree were part of the year for chemistry students. The total program was designed to give them an understanding of atomic and molecular structure.

Physics gave increasing attention to atomic energy. A machine capable of measuring the diameter of a nucleus and equipment for measuring the half-life of a radio-active material were acquired for lab work.

Biology studied the variations and effects on each other of plants and animals. In addition, for the first time, students were able to observe plants coping with their environment in a two-acre ecology lab.

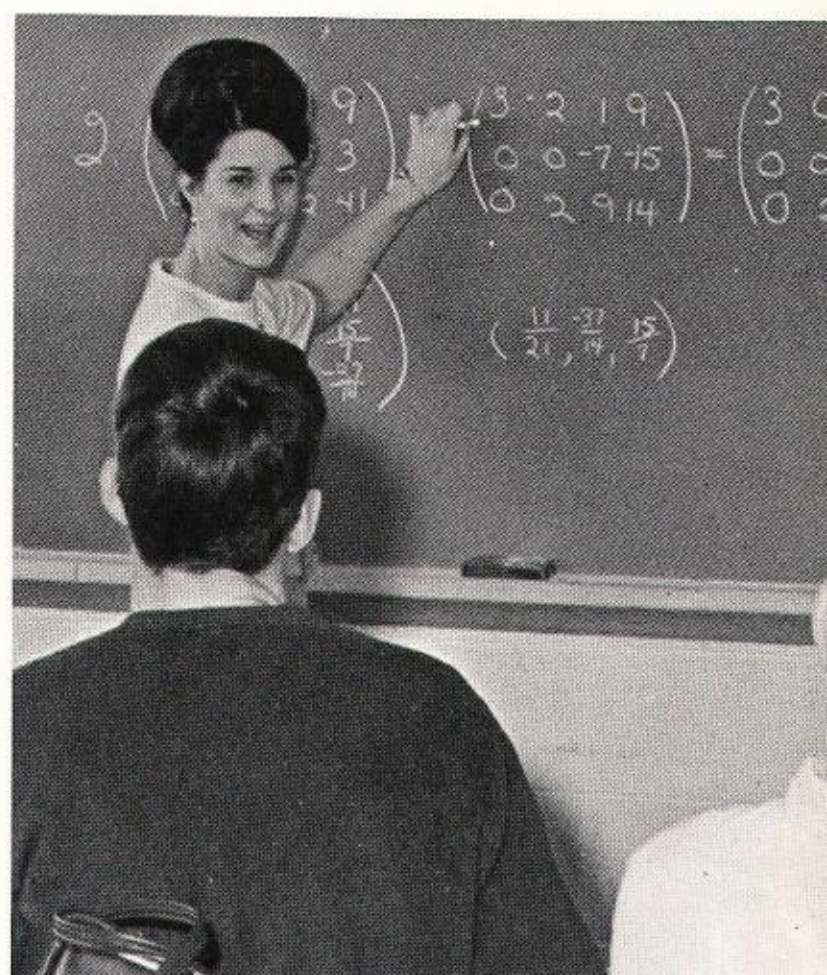

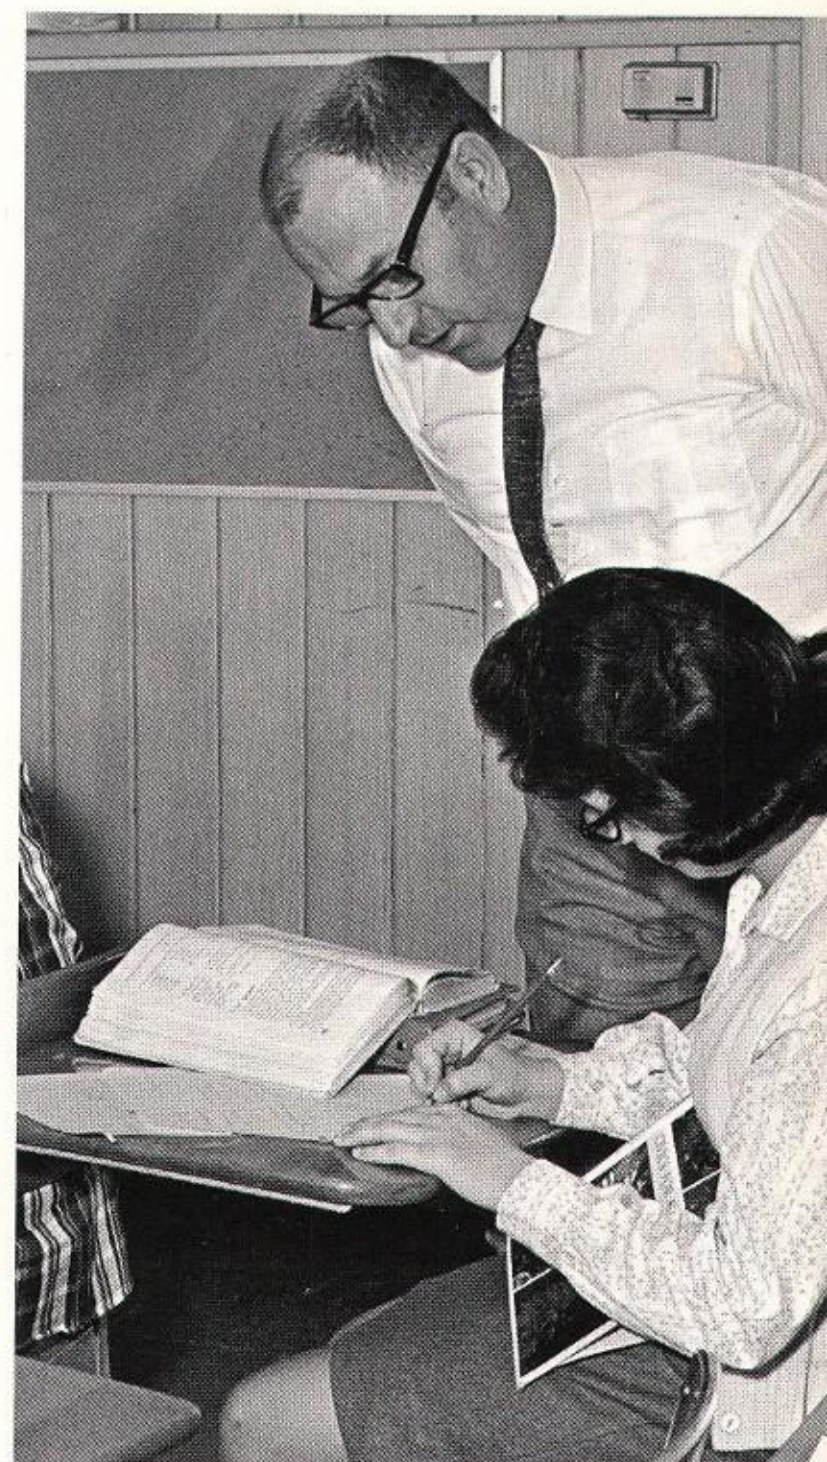

Gary Fulks, Mr. J. W. Mount, Alfred Bothwell, and Lewis Bussey (above center) agreed that a one-shot multivibrator was a handy thing for tracing alpha particles. Chemistry students (above) pursued knowledge in a laboratory session, and no one blamed Mr. Bill Thomas for letting grass grow under his feet (left). His ecology laboratory on Fassnight Creek was new this year.

A technological world faced Parkview students, but they were able to obtain a good basis for understanding it from the mathematics courses offered. From wide, generalized studies to more detailed investigations in the world of numbers, these courses gave the students a foundation for further study in college and for solving the problems of their work-a-day world.

Two mathematics courses gave students an introductory look at several fields of mathematics. Among the phases covered were arithmetic, geometry, algebra, and trigonometry. Their uses and their applications to everyday life were part of the study.

Algebra I and Algebra II students ventured into some of the abstract concepts in mathematics. They worked with graphs, equations, variables, radicals, and other tools of the scientist.

Additional inquiry was made by some into the workings of geometrical figures, both on a plane and solid. Orderly proofs were used in the solution of problems. Logical thinking by the students was encouraged through these classes.

Mr. Lonnie Scott and an Algebra I class explored all the possible combinations which would result in $6X^2 + 14$.

For the skeptical who demand proof, Marc McCordle is prepared to demonstrate to his fellow students in the geometry class (above), while the more advanced concepts in trigonometry concerned Marilyn Ledgerwood.

Business is needed by consumers, as well as by producers. Parkview business courses were broad enough so as to provide a foundation for those who would be working in some areas of the business world and to give basic information for those who would be served by the business world.

Typewriting, shorthand, bookkeeping, salesmanship, business law, and basic business practices helped students become efficient in monetary organization, mathematical computation, and use of various machines.

Several new pieces of equipment were added to the department. A Steno-trainer with private earphones at each desk helped the students in shorthand and in secretarial practice. A new projector and calculator were also used by teachers and students this year.

Whether bound for college or for a position, many students were interested in becoming proficient in the use of a typewriter.

Industrial arts classes at Parkview not only gave the students more skill in their respective fields, but also gave them an idea of what an occupation of this type is.

Beginning classes offered a general outlook on the subject and projects were simpler in conception. The advanced courses refined the skills taught in the basic courses of drafting, metalwork, woodwork, and electricity and the projects were more demanding in their execution.

Cooperative-Occupational Education classes combined class-room instruction with on-the-job experience. Students worked in a variety of occupations which ranged from selling in numerous areas of the market to work in trades which use the apprentice system for training.

Learning the techniques of a laboratory was part of Suzy Gorelick's work experience (top right) at the Southwest Baptist Hospital. Sales and merchandising was the field that interested Pam Williams and Becky Steffans who worked at Newport's variety store (below). A knowledge of men's ready-to-wear accompanied the experience in salesmanship gained by David Baker who worked at Rubenstein's (center right), and David Finley got a head start in learning a trade at the Springfield Plumbing and Heating Co.

John Tuckness removed a heavy mold from its frame under the watchful supervision of Mike Lorenzen, Gary Gibson, and Denny Morelock (above) in Mr. Allen Gwin's first-hour metalwork class.

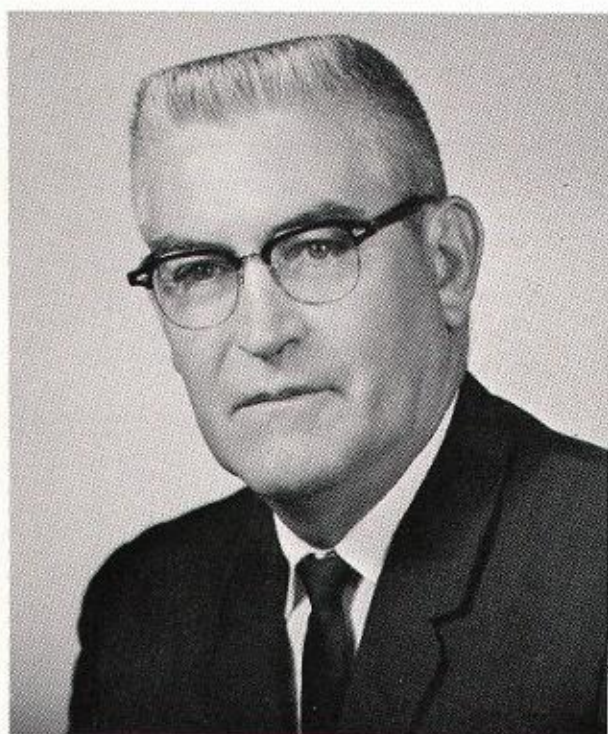

One hundred twenty-five Parkview students were included in the 420 boys and girls from the senior high schools who got a head start toward their future work by enrolling for courses in the Vocational-Technical School. These students had a choice of fourteen occupational areas. Data processing, practical nursing, and electronics were popular courses among PHS students.

Students from the four senior high schools scheduled courses on a half-day basis at the Vocational-Technical school during their junior and senior years. The number of girls enrolled in the school increased because of growing interest in data processing, technical drafting, and the practical nursing program. Graduates of the school were assisted in obtaining employment in the occupational area in which they received training.

Students enrolled in the vocational training courses were transported by bus to and from their respective schools.

In addition to providing training for senior high school students, the Vocational-Technical School served the community and the southwest area in its adult programs. About 100 classes were offered for adult training with both day and night classes operated for adult students. Last year, 1400 adults trained for jobs in the school.

To meet the needs of the high school and adult students, facilities at the school were expanded by an addition of 26,000 square feet to the existing building. Ground for the new addition, providing room for new shops.

Investigating resistive circuits was a vital part of the electronics course. Working in the laboratory fundamentals unit were Jerald Wyatt, Richard Claybough, and James Knouff (immediately below). Reproducing a half tone on the Brown lithographic camera in the printing class were Howard Chitwood, Frank Goss, and Bill Henderson (second below).

Turning a project to close tolerance on a lathe (far left) in the machine shop were David Drake, Larry Davis, and Terry Goodman. Lloyd Button, David Anderson, and Dwayne Jackson worked with similar projects. Sharon Griffin (left) used the drafting machine as Dan Hunt, Jim Inman, and Darrell Rose helped her solve a problem. In the refrigerating and air conditioning class David West, Randy Martin, Jim Walker, and Ronald Mitchem (above) learned how to check voltage and pressures on refrigeration equipment.

To prepare today's homemaker to adjust to the needs of a changing world, Parkview's home economics department re-organized its program this year. Three new occupational courses replaced the Home Economics IV class offered in previous years. These new courses provided the basic training with only on-the-job experience needed after graduation.

Child care service taught the students methods for work in day nurseries, volunteer child care, and as kindergarten assistants. The food service class prepared girls for an occupation as hostess, waitress, cook, or in a catering service.

The interior decorating service taught its classes to re-finish furniture, make draperies, and to create room layouts. Its students were prepared for interior decorating work below the professional level.

Enrollment in the home economics department increased over 100 girls this year, crowding the department, yet showing the successful result of the new classes.

In all classes, from the general Home Economics I to Home Economics II and III, the advanced foods and clothing classes, the trend was toward a greater stress on child care and family living and less on food and clothing, per se.

For that proverbial stitch in time, Jane Little found the opportunity in Home Economics III, a class in advanced sewing, as she worked toward the completion of her dress (above). The families of Carole Brammer, Susan Henley, Joan Young, and Judy Miller (above right) could expect home canned and preserved food, for this was a skill the girls acquired in their Home Ec. II class.

Although no longer the age to play with dolls, students in the new child care course studied them along with other toys. Members of Mrs. Nancy Ipoeh's second-hour class (above) could hardly resist the charm of the dolls in the collection of Miss Lynne Bussey, their student teacher. Another facet of the child care course was the proper technique of bathing and dressing a baby. A student nurse from St. John's Hospital (left) furnished the skilled hands, and Nyla Hilton provided the cooing to entertain the little model.

Physical Education Adds New Activities

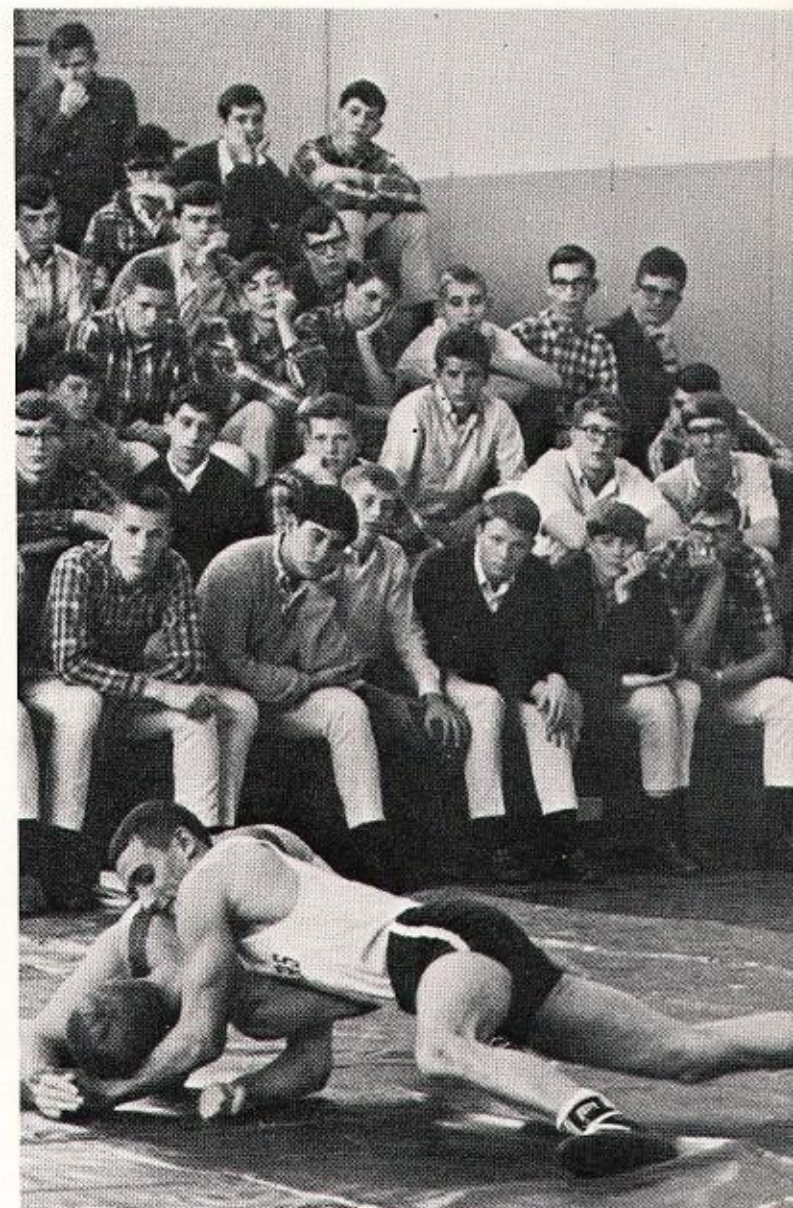

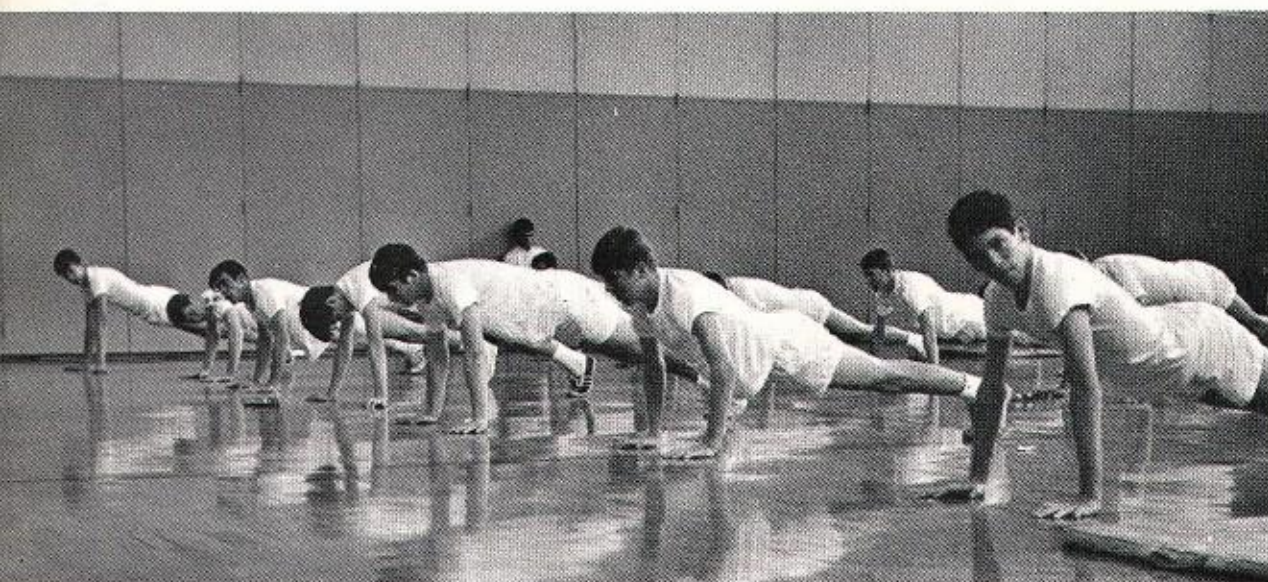

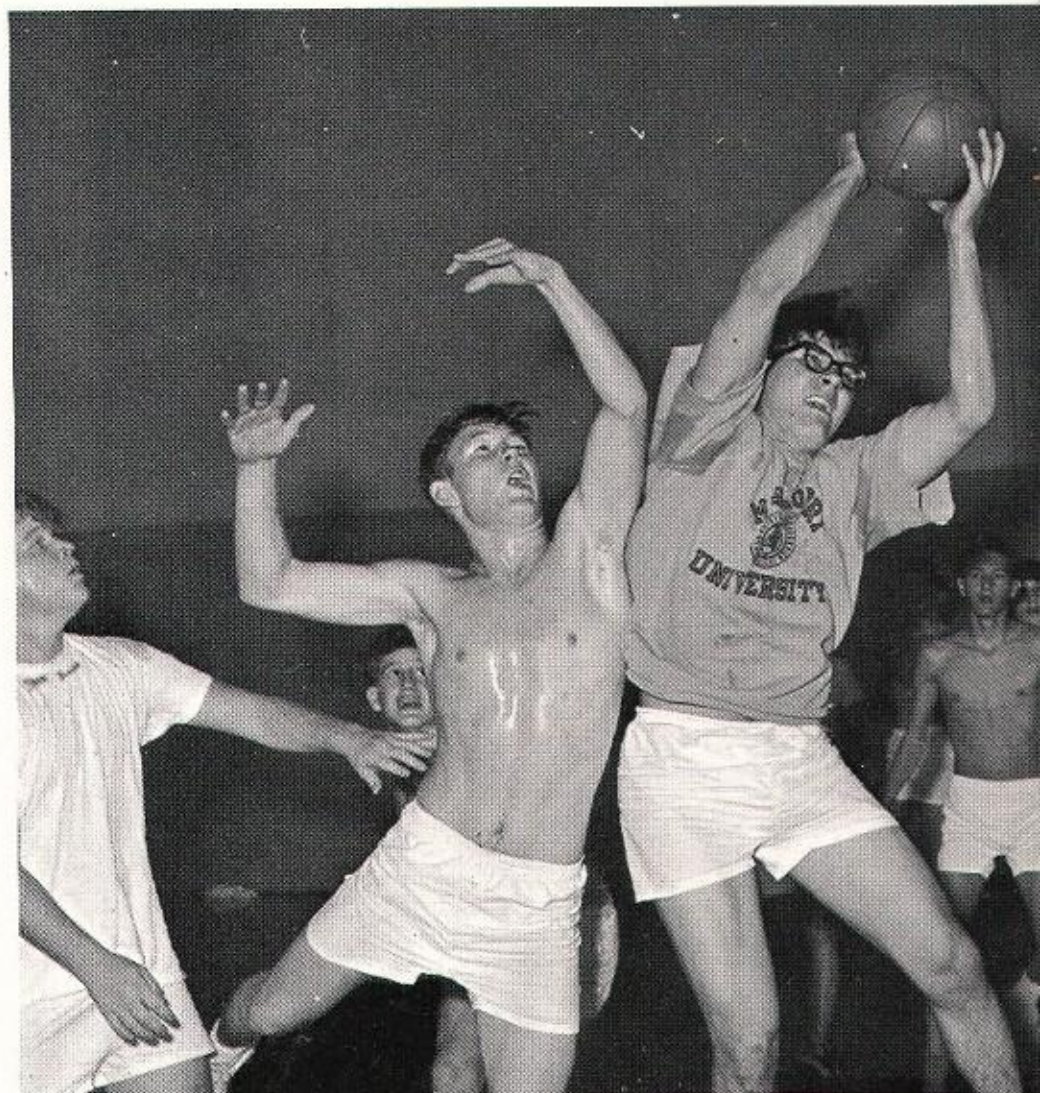

Exercises for building strength, agility, and endurance; competitive sports for teams and individuals, and the study of physical and mental health were included in the physical education and health programs.

Physical education is required in the freshman and sophomore years with the study of health added to the program in the junior year. Physical fitness tests are an annual part of the course with the students compared to national standards.

This year the girls' physical education classes added the gymnastics performed on the balance board to their program. The board used was a foot shorter and not as high off the floor as that used in Olympic competition, but was the same in all other respects.

Tennis was added to the boys' physical education program in addition to touch football, basketball, and softball, the usual team sports taught in the classes.

Wrestling exhibition from Southwest Missouri State College, conditioning exercises, and a rough-and-tumble basketball game were all part of the boys' physical education program this year. Gary McIntosh waited apprehensively as his teammate Tom Talty wrestled the ball out of reach of Doug Randall in the class competition.

Dear Paula-

It seems like we've been going to school together for as long as I can remember, now. I'm really sorry it's over, too (believe it or not) I never forget that time we sat in your Mom's car. what was it? about 11:30 out behind the school with no lights on. It would've been all over for us if you all hadn't driven up. I wish you lots of luck and happiness in the future. You're a sweet friend to have Paula - and I pity all of us Yellow Jitters anyhow. God bless you always. Love, Nancy McAlhany

ORGANIZATIONS

Come on in ... be a part. Student life at Parkview is not limited to the fields of academic endeavor. The honors accumulated by the school through the many extra-curricular activities have been won on both state and national levels. School-sponsored organizations range from those with prerequisites and tryouts to those open to all interested students.

Excitement always runs high as the organizations generate lively and spirited enthusiasm. The glory of sports events, the glamour of the Viking Festival, that feeling of pride when the band of Lassie Drum Corps perform combine to provide the memories of high school life at Parkview.

These are the traditional activities and spirit, and in the same way this year the personality of the students themselves, their determination for success, their pride in their teams whether in victory or defeat, their efforts in making the clubs' projects successful, and their gaiety of spirit were expressed and became a part of the record of these groups, adding another dimension to life at Parkview.

Band Top Notch in Performance

TWIRLERS ... Bonnie Stufflebean, Jean Wylie, Georgine Rice, Leta Anderson.

Providing spirit and colorful shows, the Parkview Marching Band performed at all the home football games this year and also traveled to Bartlesville, Oklahoma, to present a half-time show.

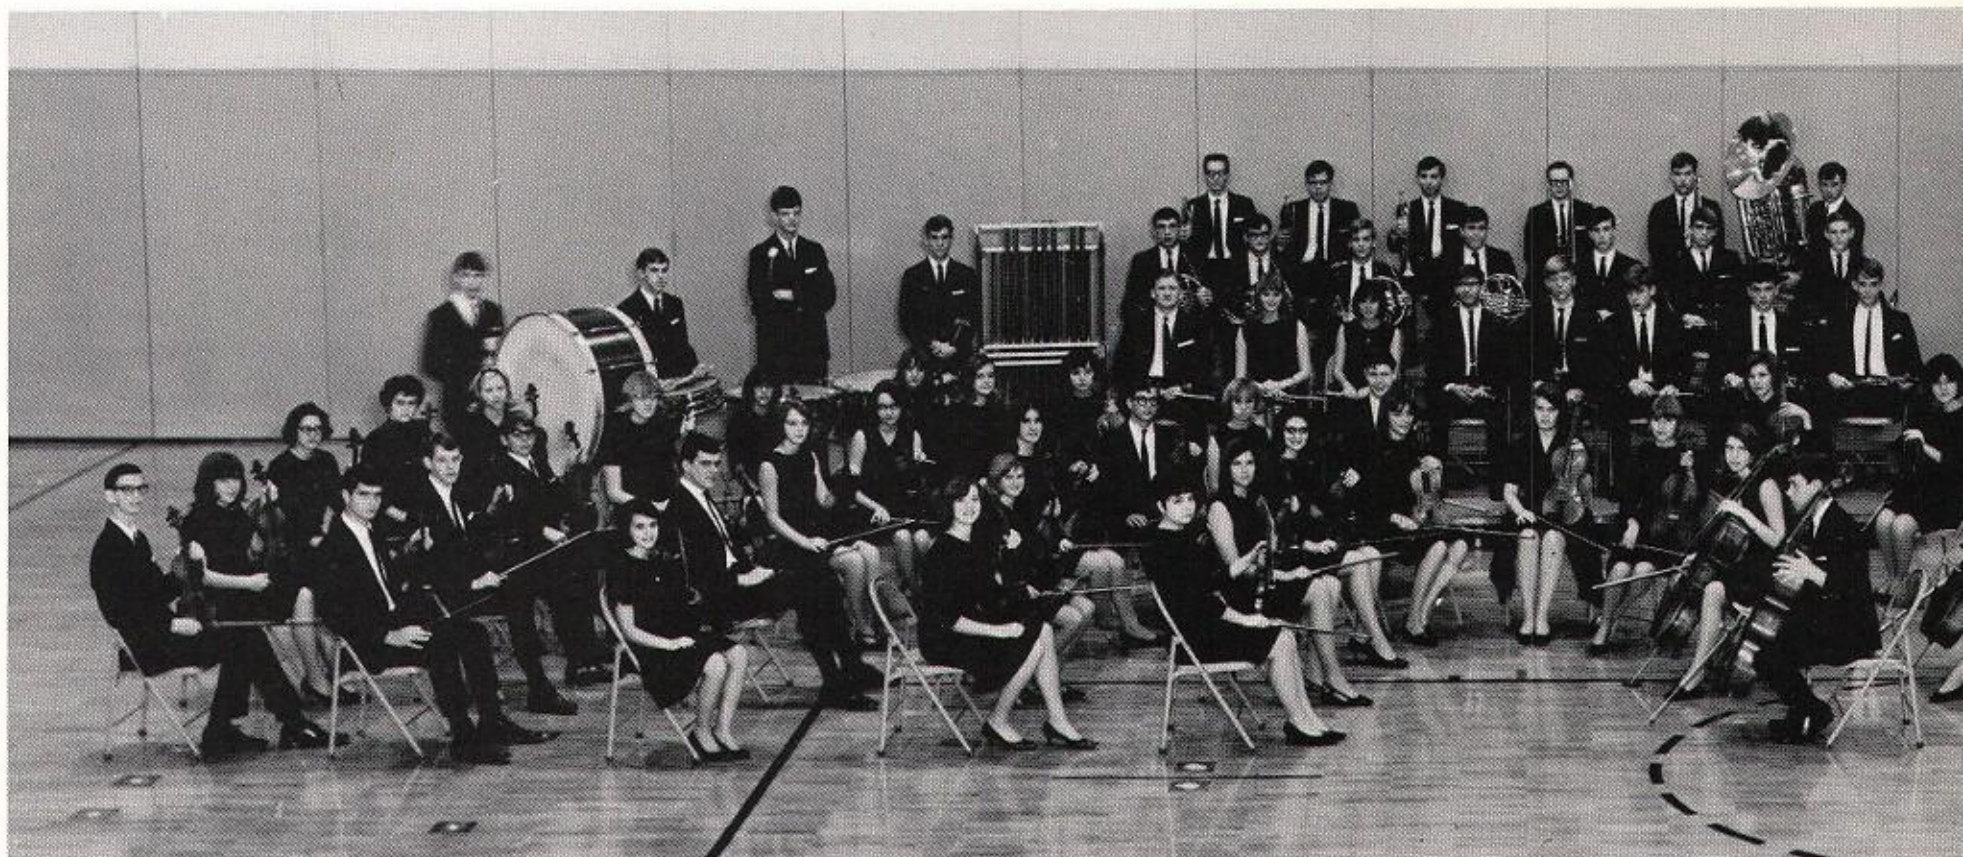

From their first appearance in a pre-game show to the last spectacular program, the band performed its precision routines with verve and skill. These routines, including the popular "PV," a salute to the Parkview Vikings, were greeted with enthusiasm by students and Springfield fans.

On the field at Bartlesville and in the Kennedy Stadium during the game with Jefferson City, the band presented an outstanding show, "A Typical Day for a Parkview Student." As the climax of the performance, the band formed the letters "USA" inside a shield formed by their hats in a salute to American Education.

The annual band concert was presented in February with music ranging from serious classical compositions to popular swing tunes. On parade for community occasions or in assemblies and programs, the band could be counted on to raise the spirits and fill the hearts of Parkview students with pride.

Making its debut in the Christmas season was a brass choir whose members were drawn from both band and orchestra. Appearing before the Parent-Teachers Association and the student body, its performance won it immediate acclaim.

Rated in the top ten of the nation, Parkview's orchestra performed superbly during the year. The student body was held spellbound as the orchestra presented its annual assembly program.

After its evening performance, an equally pleased adult audience gave the orchestra a standing ovation. A recording was made of this concert, marking the debut of many of the members into the record field.

The orchestra also performed in the annual Christmas program for the Parent-Teachers Association and for the student assembly.

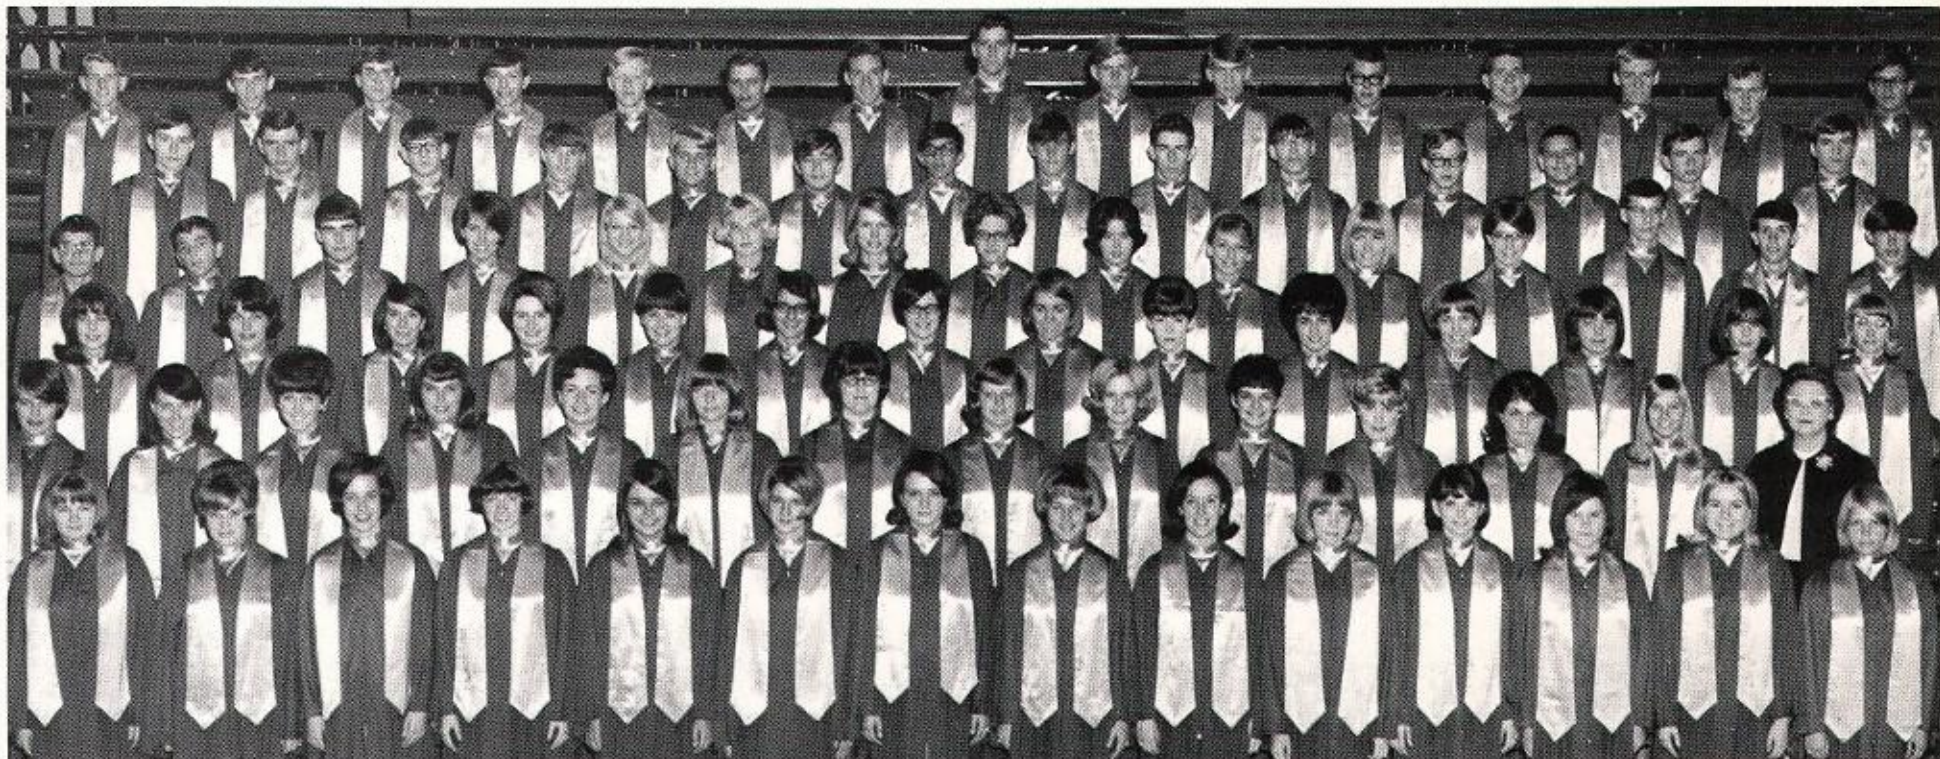

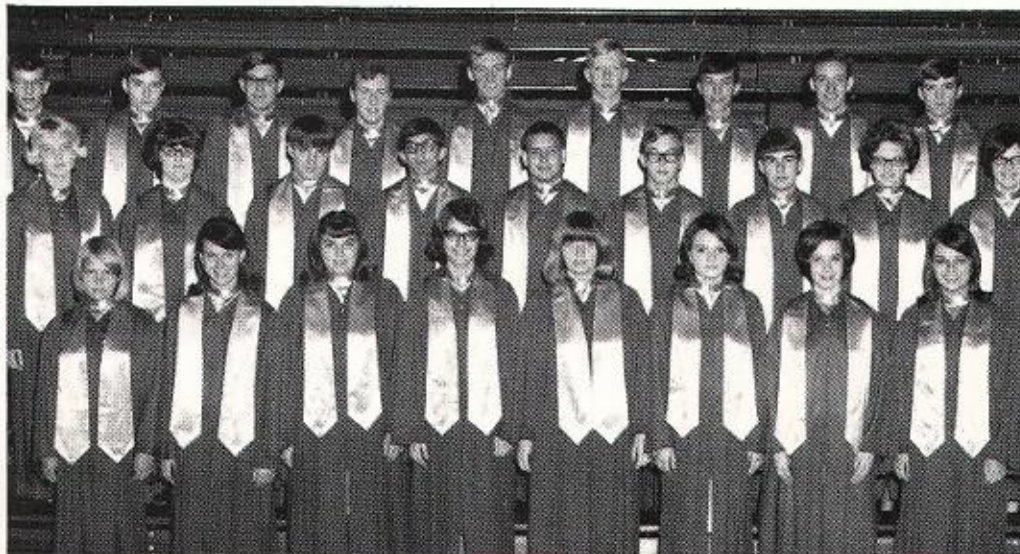

Playing semi-classical favorites, the Singing Strings provided music during Parkview's Open House. The ensemble also was given a fine reception when they played for a luncheon held at the Twin Oaks Country Club.

To many Parkview students the high point of the Junior-Senior Choir's activities is the presentation of the annual operetta. This year Tom Sawyer and his adventurous friend Huckleberry Finn again came to life as the music and dramatics students presented the operetta Tom Sawyer.

DeLaine Russell played the fun-loving country boy Tom Sawyer, and the scandalous Huck Finn was portrayed by Don Hawkins. Nancy Jacobian took the role of Tom's Aunt Polly, and the town ruffians Muff Potter and his grave-digging partner Injun Joe were played by Earl Beeler and Pat McCammon. Susan Rice was Becky Thatcher, the first girl to set Tom's heart fluttering.

Tom Sawyer Lives Again on Parkview's Stage

Bob Ollis, jailer, was in a quandary about what to do when Tom and the town rummy Muff Potter, played by Earl Beelor, were encountered as they attempted a jailbreak. Tom's original idea of Heaven got an amazed reception from Donna Mueller and Barbara Banta, and Susan Rice as Becky was tempted to see, too.

The National Forensic League is an honor organization for speech and debate students who have compiled at least twenty-five points in speech activities and tournaments.

NFL sponsored Parkview's eleventh annual speech and debate tournament held in February, and members also competed in tournaments in all areas of the state. Students winning extra awards in the competitive speech areas were eligible to attend the NFL State Tournament held at Columbia, Missouri, and the Student Congress held in Jefferson City.

Quill and Scroll, the international honor society for high school journalists, had a big jump in membership this year. With only one member from last year's junior class beginning the year, the club had 23 qualified for membership at the end of the first semester.

Quill and Scroll is open to juniors and seniors who are in the upper third of their academic class, have done outstanding work in journalism, are recommended by their adviser, and approved by the executive director of the Society. Activities included submitting copy to the Quill and Scroll national committee to be judged and sponsoring the annual journalism awards banquet held in the spring.

Paula,

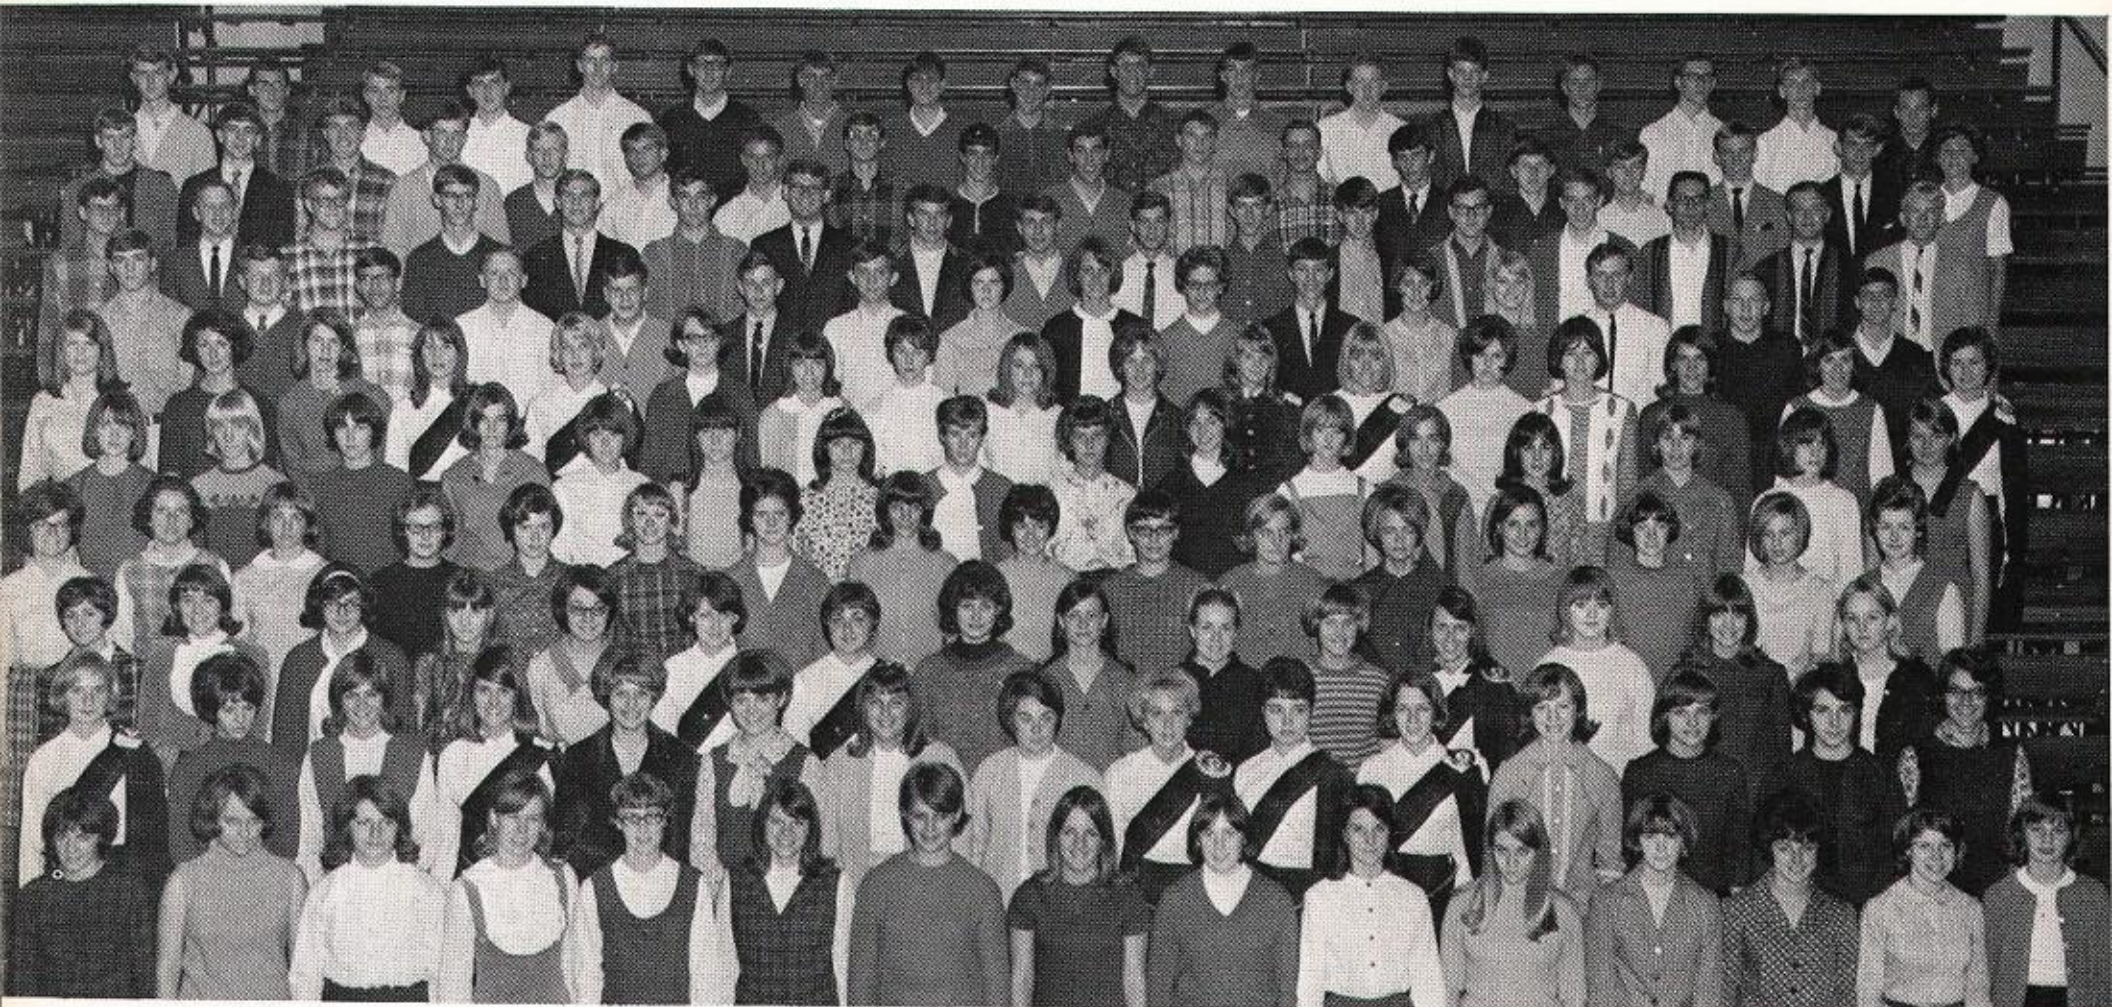

It was a pleasure being in Orch. with you last yr. and bowling this yr. There really isn't much space here so I just say: Lots of luck to a real nice girl.

More dear than deer were some of the members of Mrs. Peggy Frank's first-hour English IV class as they presented their version of "The Night Before Christmas."

Hoping to be mistaken for an English personality, literary figure, or book title, the senior English students who belonged to Canterbury Society combined talent and humor in designing their costumes for the annual banquet which was the climax of the social calendar.

The same imagination and creativity was in evidence as the members presented the program for the Christmas party with its setting of an Old English Coffee House. Programs for the monthly meetings were devised and presented by students from the various senior English classes.

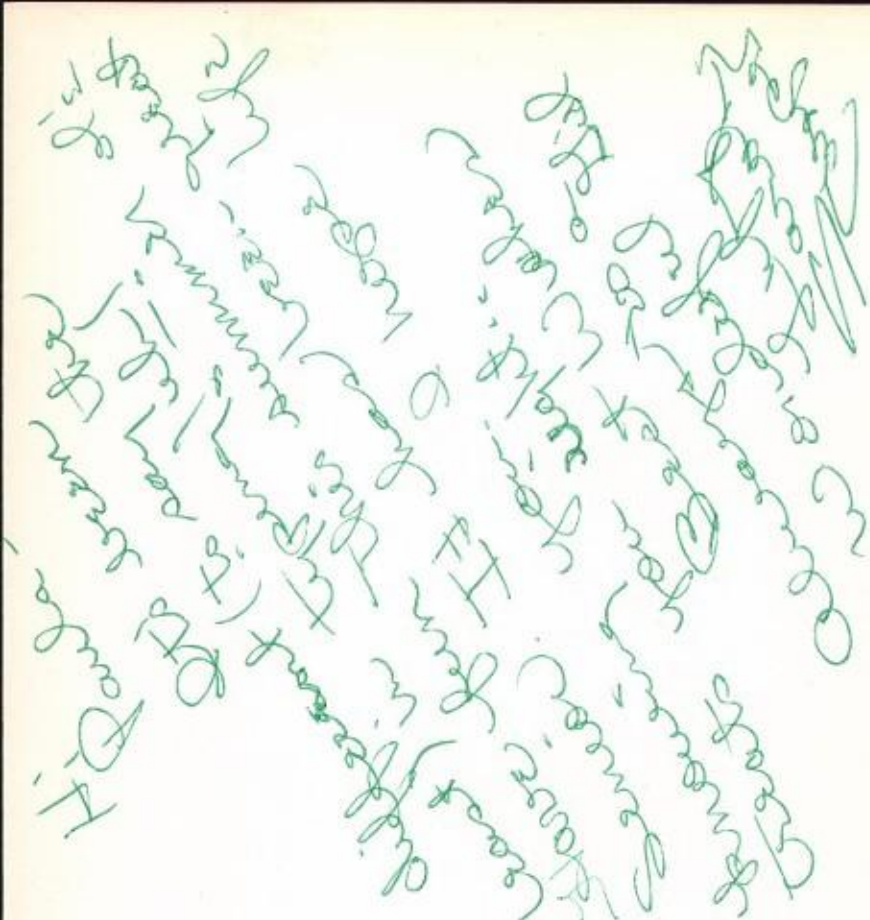

Type Lice, a journalism club open to any interested student but made up primarily of students enrolled in journalism, took field trips to the Gospel Publishing House and the Springfield newspaper. The club shared the social activities of Quill and Scroll, the annual Christmas Open House, and the spring awards banquet.

Whether serving themselves refreshments or serving the Canterbury Society as officers, Ann Anthony, treasurer; Jeanne St. John, secretary; Bob Ollis, president; and Jim Martin, vice-president, were enthusiastically and energetically busy.

Clubs Follow Interests

For the Dramatics Club, the show began when, in September, Ted Andrews was elected president. During the year, he presided over the planning of parties and programs for the club.

Members attended the musical The King and I in the fall and saw the movie The Cardinal in January to observe theater techniques. In October, the Halloween costume party gave vice-president DeLaine Russell a chance to take first prize as the "best-dressed woman." Marilyn Geren got an award for her cannibal costume. The Christmas banquet was marked with a "white elephant" gift exchange, and the party in February quite naturally was replete with hearts—even to the selection of a King and Queen.

Parkview's book lovers got together after school in the library each month to learn more about books and library work and to sample such diverse activities as the solving of library-slanted mysteries, the discussion of philosophy, the reviewing of books and plays, and the handling of the club's business.

Once known as Book Belles, the club became Knowledge Seekers with the advent of boys into its membership. After discussion on a new club name, the choice became more expedient than poetic with the adoption of Library Club.

If carrying such a heavy pumpkin is necessary to being a witch, Carolyn Geren may turn to easier ways of witchery. At least it offered a weighty topic for conversation with Charlotte Grant who was Alice in Wonderland at the Dramatics Club's Halloween party.

Howdy! Here I am on the best page in the whole book. Well it's been one hell of a year, and I'm ready for summer. Hope you have fun & hope I see ya's around.

French, Latin Clubs Mix Fun and Information

Donna Simmerman and Larry Hampton (right) held the Latin club spellbound in their roles in Bulla. The eagerness of Linda Ross, secretary; Annette Andrews, treasurer; Bob Ollis, president; Judy McCoy, program chairman; Richard Cunningham; and Alfred Bothwell, president, (above) for refreshment did not imply that they had found the Latin play and the players at all dry.

Le Cercle Francais offered extra opportunity for French students to practice their language skills as well as have fun. Meetings convened the first Thursday of each month. At these times, members were treated to parties, skits and games, talks and slides, all in the French vein.

At the Christmas party in the Little Theater, members had an extra treat. PHS graduates, Patsy Koelling and Eddie Powell, who had spent the summer in Paris, showed slides and told of their experiences in Europe.

This spring for their special event, members went to Branson for dinner at a French restaurant.

The Latin Club kept true to its Roman heritage. Following the Roman policy of triumvirate, the club elected three presidents. Richard Cunningham, Bob Ollis, and Alfred Bothwell took their loyal club members through the year with varied activities straight from Mt. Olympus.

One of those presentations took place at the January meeting as the sixth-hour Latin II class gave a one-act Latin play. The Roman banquet was the year's climax.

An international touch was provided by French club president Tedda King as she helped straighten the Japanese kimono and obi worn by Karen Titmus, Parkview's foreign exchange student from Tasmania.

Joining the clubs having Christmas parties were the Spanish club, Los Caballeros, and the Future Teachers of America.

The traditional piñata, filled with candies, hung tantalizingly, waiting to be broken by the Spanish students as the club officers prepared the refreshment table. Another of the club's activities full of color and fun was the annual banquet.

FTA members, with an understanding of the demands of a teacher's day, honored the faculty at a tea, held at the final staff meeting before the Christmas holiday. Members were on hand, too, offering help at the annual Open House as they greeted parents, displayed books, and presided at registration folders. One of the special opportunities for FTA members is the cadet teaching program, open to senior members. This year Joyce Miller was at Portland Elementary School, and Melinda Powell worked at Sunshine.

"Walk together, talk together, O ye people of the world;
Then and only then shall ye have peace."

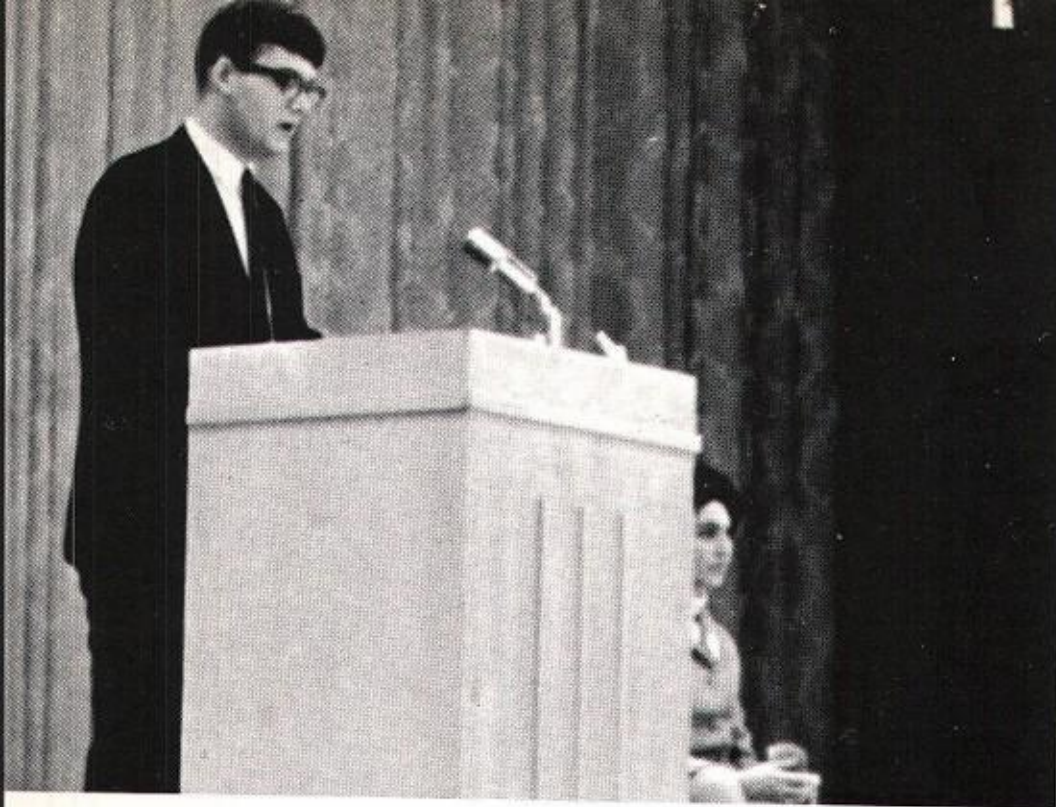

Parkview's Cosmopolitan-AFS club lived up to its motto this year as through its participation in the American Field Service program the school was able to welcome Karen Titmus from Tasmania, Australia. Parkview also sent a student abroad. Senior Ann Anthony spent the summer in Chile under the AFS program. The club worked with chapters from the other Springfield high schools to build a float for the annual Christmas parade. A Christmas party and a banquet contributed to the social calendar.

Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y also spent a busy year. The Tri-Hi-Y held a party for the children at St. John's hospital at Halloween, and at Christmas, the clubs gave parties for underprivileged children. One of the year's main events is the Model State Government day at Jefferson City. Ella Dunn, a Parkview senior, was selected sergeant-at-arms for the senate. The PHS Tri-Hi-Y prepared a case for trial.

Deciding on future activities for the Tri-Hi-Y was generally a job that required more heads than one. Those putting their heads together in plan were Suzanne Divine, vice-president; Ella Dunn, president; Glenda Williams, secretary; Kathy Collinson, treasurer; and Cathy Cody, social director, readying an agenda for a meeting.

Future Business Leaders of America Club gained valuable business information by attending special lectures, taking tours, and observing demonstrations. These activities helped prepare members for living and working in the adult business world.

The performance of the Parkview chapter of FBLA at the 1966 National Convention was outstanding. Representatives of the club took first place in the Local Chapter Exhibit, the Parliamentary Procedure team placed second, and the chapter also won first in the Most Original Project.

The purpose of the Cooperative-Occupational Education program is to provide an opportunity for students to obtain additional training through work experience on jobs outside of school. Local businesses and industries cooperated with the school to provide the vocational training. Each student spent half a day on a job, approved by the COE instructor. For the most part the job skills and procedures were taught to the student by the employer. Students also were enrolled in a one-hour course of class-room instruction related to the occupation.

"This Way America" was the theme of the COE banquet which honored the employers. Mr. Lowell A. Burkett, executive director of the American Educational Association, was a featured speaker. The banquet, an annual activity of the club, was the subject of an article in a national magazine.

Addressing envelopes for the Greene County Cancer Society was a project of the Future Business Leaders of America. Cheryl Anderson, treasurer; Tom Little, historian; Duane Smith, social chairman; and Jane Little, social chairman, helpfully provided materials for Paula Hamilton, secretary; and Diane Bench, president, ready to type.

The Employee-Employer Banquet in which students in the cooperative-occupational education program honor their employers required planning and work on decorations by Mary Mitchell, Patti Jarvis, and Helen Shafer (above), and many others. Mrs. Pauline Gibson, secretary to the superintendent; Mr. Don Funkhouser, Springfield Plumbing and Heating Co.; and Dave Finley, his student employee, were among the 500 who were in attendance at the banquet.

Future Homemakers of America was actively engaged in projects to promote interest in homemaking and to give its members an opportunity to learn the importance and the enjoyment of this vocation.

Italian food for themselves and a special Christmas party for the children in the Salvation Army's Day Nursery were fun to prepare for and to carry out.

Sons of Leif, better known as the Letterman's club, played an important role in building good school spirit. Open to all varsity lettermen of a sport offered by the school, the Sons of Leif held pep rallies, hung signs, and worked on the construction of new trophy cases, their annual project.

Because of limited space to display trophies, the club members, as a service project, were responsible for arranging the trophies to display the ones more recently won by the Green and Gold athletes.

Future Farmers of America took an active part in livestock exhibits and district, state, and national programs of FFA. They were represented in the National FFA Convention in Kentucky and participated in district and state judging tours. The members entered their livestock at the Union Stock Yards and also were in competition at the Ozark Empire Fair.

The Parents-Sons banquet was a high point of their social activities with the presentation of the award to the member chosen as the most outstanding of the year.

In preparation for a demonstration at a meeting, Science Club officers struggled to lift a Helm Holtz Coil from its elevated storage corner. "Careful," warned Cindy Mullin, secretary, as Alfred Bothwell, president; James Stone, vice-president; and Mike Dark, treasurer, balanced it precariously, "that equipment cost $200, and even biology students can't grow that on trees."

Clubs Explore Scientific Ideas, Test Skill

Field trips, science fairs, and guest speakers enlivened the activities of the Science Club and provided excellent learning experiences. Advanced laboratory techniques and scientific concepts were explored at the Lab Assistants' meetings. Students in this club also helped teachers in setting up and in performing experiments.

Slide rules used to solve complicated problems were always present at meetings of the Math Club. Working the problems helped members to further their knowledge and interest in mathematics.

Pawns, rooks, knights, and even the fair queens were sacrificed to protect the king. This sounds barbaric, but it was part of the game and that game was chess. Members gathered around chess boards each week and matched skill.

Selling colorful ribbons to the Parkview students and staff, although an annual activity of the Key Club, had one added result this year. From their funds, the members purchased a Missouri State flag to fly from the school flag pole underneath Old Glory.

One of the first activities involving the Key Club was College Day, held in October, to acquaint juniors and seniors with various colleges. Another project of service to the students was the annual Vocational Clinic, held in January.

Just before the Christmas vacation, members of the club braved the season's first real snow storm to deliver boxes and baskets of gifts which were provided for many needy families by clubs and classes.

Also providing service to the school was the Audio-Visual Club whose members coped with film and projectors so that the educational program could have added interest and depth.

Student help was given in many other areas. In the attendance and general offices, girls helped with filing, ran errands, picked up attendance slips, and performed other useful tasks. Even the lunch periods ran more smoothly because students kept the racks of trays filled and manned the cash registers.

Moonlight provided the perfect setting for a glowing Linda Matthews who was crowned queen of this year's Basketball Dance.

Bud Rice completed the theme of the evening, "Moonlight and Roses," by presenting Linda with a dozen long-stemmed red roses and a kiss at the half time of the Parkview-West Plains game.

Preceding the presentation of the queen was a salute performance by the Lassie Drum Corps and the announcement of the basketball attendants.

The theme of the dance was carried out by the red and gold color scheme of the decorations. Red roses surrounded the walls, and the throne was embellished with gold hearts and red and gold streamers.

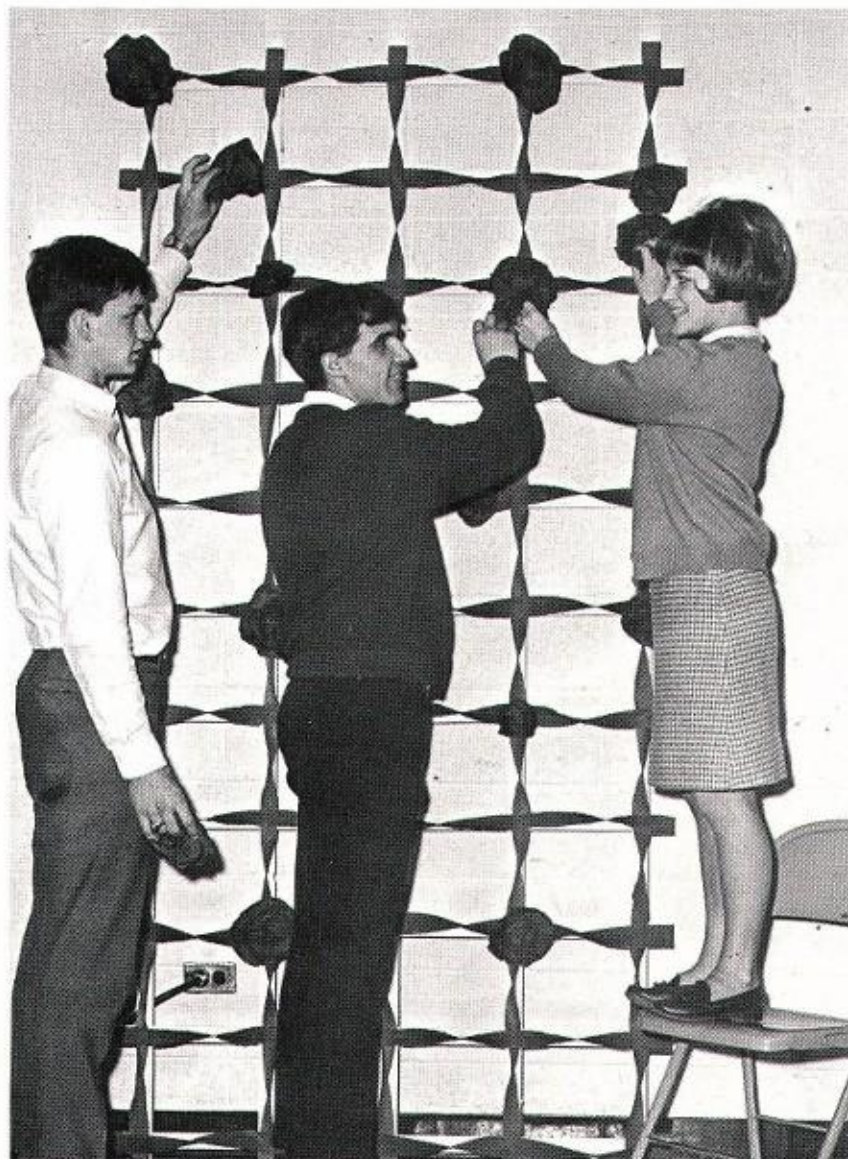

Her royal majesty Linda Matthews, escorted by Mike Simon, was presented to her subjects following the coronation at the basketball dance. Earlier, at the game, Linda had happily awaited the traditional kiss and roses from Bud Rice.

Cabinet's Activities Include Basketball Dance

Student body officers Bud Rice, vice-president; Turner White, president; and Barbara Banta, social director (left) put the finishing touches on a rose trellis to be used later at the Council-sponsored basketball dance. Bruce Kirby, speaker of the house, later joined Turner, Bud and Barbara to bask in the shade of the dogwood blossoms, well pleased with their year of work and of service to the students.

Commissioners Bill Kammerer, building and grounds; Virginia Barefore, art; Richard Cunningham, elections; Susan Bennett, secretary; and Nancy Gose, assemblies, (left) had few times to relax on the patio when there was work to be done, such as decorating the cafeteria for the basketball dance (above).

Councils Set the Pace

Student Representative Assembly and the Safety Council were two important facets of student life and activity in Parkview.

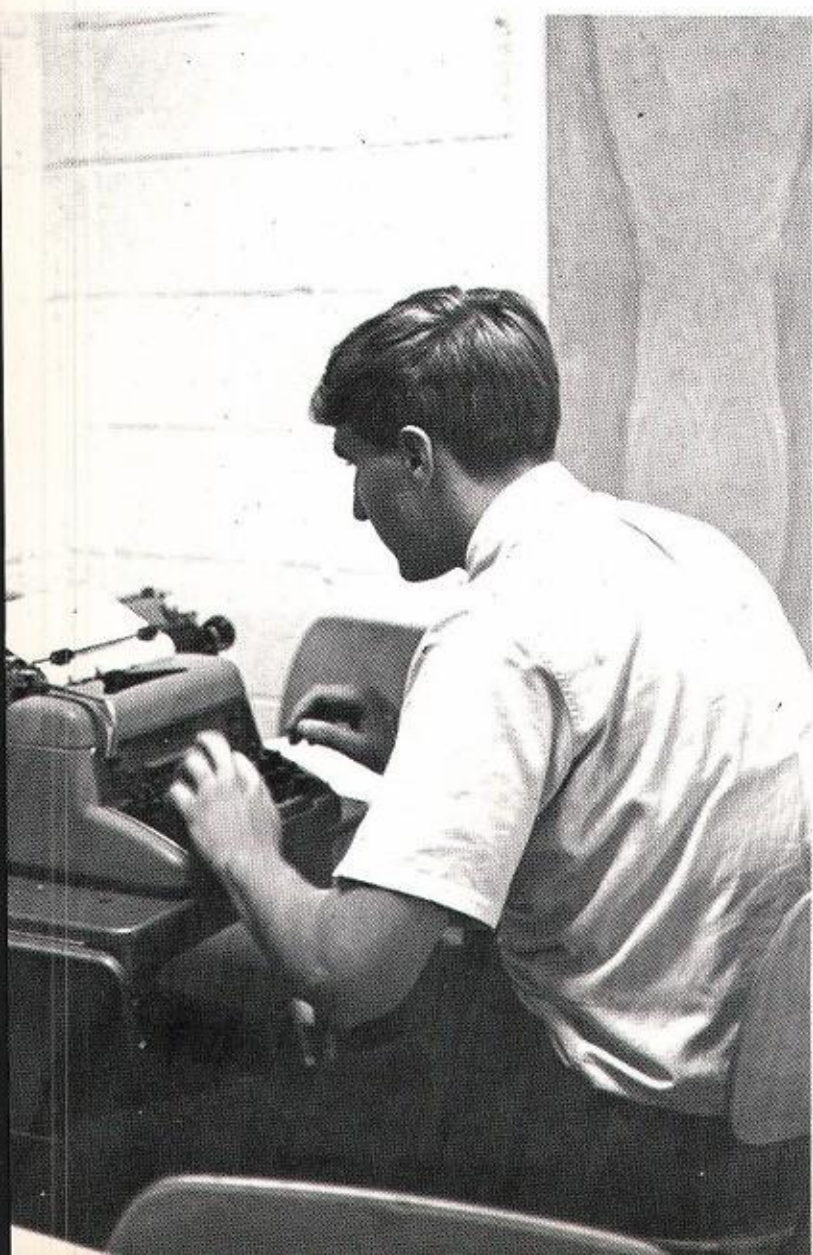

The SRA functioned well during the year and provided the training ground for working in government for the students elected by their sixth-hour classes to represent them. Heading the SRA was Bruce Kirby, speaker of the house; also assuming roles of leadership were the officers and the members of the cabinet.

Activities of the year included the student directories, several social functions, and participation in intra-city, district, and state meetings. A new project this year for SRA was the Hall of Fame, established to honor up to six seniors each year for outstanding achievement in three areas.

Safety Council could point with pride to the installation of a traffic light at the school, a project they had started the previous year. Parkview's Safety Council served as the state president and assumed its position of leadership in state matters.

The Safety Council was responsible for collecting accident reports and working with the cabinet to safeguard the health and safety of the students.

Nancy Gose, assemblies commissioner, introduced the student body officers and the cabinet in the annual Inaugural Assembly, held September 22. The officers and commissioners gave a summary of their duties and plans for the year.

Whether busy at a typewriter or joining Bud Rice, student body vice-president in the jollier task of delivering the Christmas tree, Turner White served Parkview as a capable, dedicated, and amiable student body president.

Dear Paula —
 I can't believe that this year is over already. It just seems like yesterday when we started back. We've known each other for 3 years and I'm very glad that we got to be friends. You are a very sweet girl. Next year won't be the same without your smiling face in orchestra. I'll be seeing you a lot at practice this summer. Best of luck in the future.

Janet Andrews

With perky new tams, swishing kilts, and ruffling drums, the Lassie Drum Corps enthusiastically added its pep and pride to the Parkview program of activity.

Two months of summer practice and countless hours of marching before and after school prepared the Lassies for their parades and marching performances.

The corps marched for school assemblies and games and also participated in parades in the city and the Springfield area. Special events for the corps this year were the trips to Kansas City Southwest, during the football season and to Rockhurst for a basketball game.

In early spring, marching shoes were discarded for ballet slippers and different muscles protestingly ached as the Lassies prepared and performed a concert of Scottish dances.

The colorful uniforms of the corps were often on the scene of civic affairs, charity drives, and school and community programs as the Lassies lent their help.

A last-minute briefing for the Lassie officers helped make the Corps' performance sharp and spirited. Jan Donnell, bugle captain; Linda Butler, drum captain; Carolyn Mahan, president; and Betty Baker, majorette, were the leaders of the Lassies through practices and performances.

Spirit Is Squad's Goal

"Green and gold, the colors; Vikings are the team; all for Parkview stand up and scream."

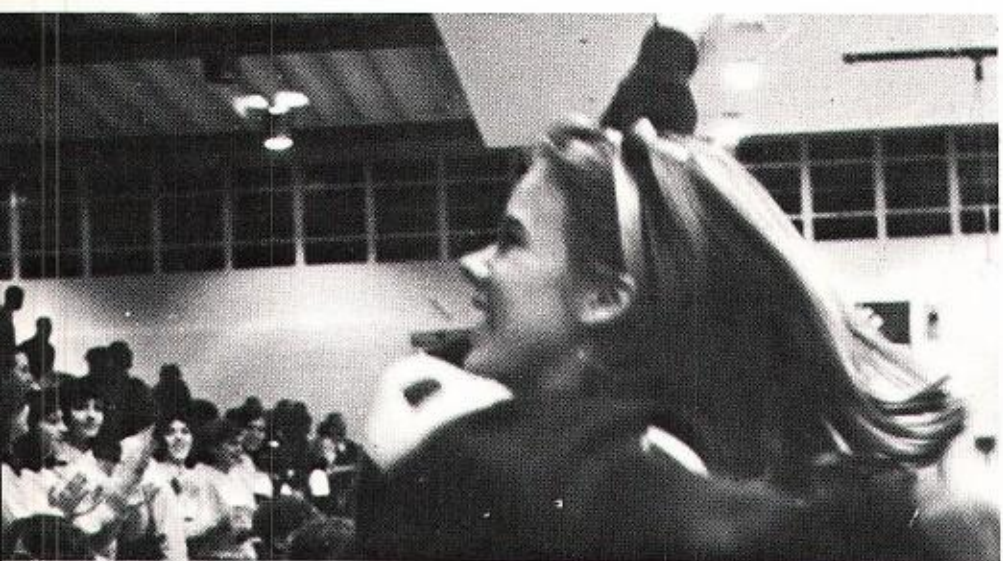

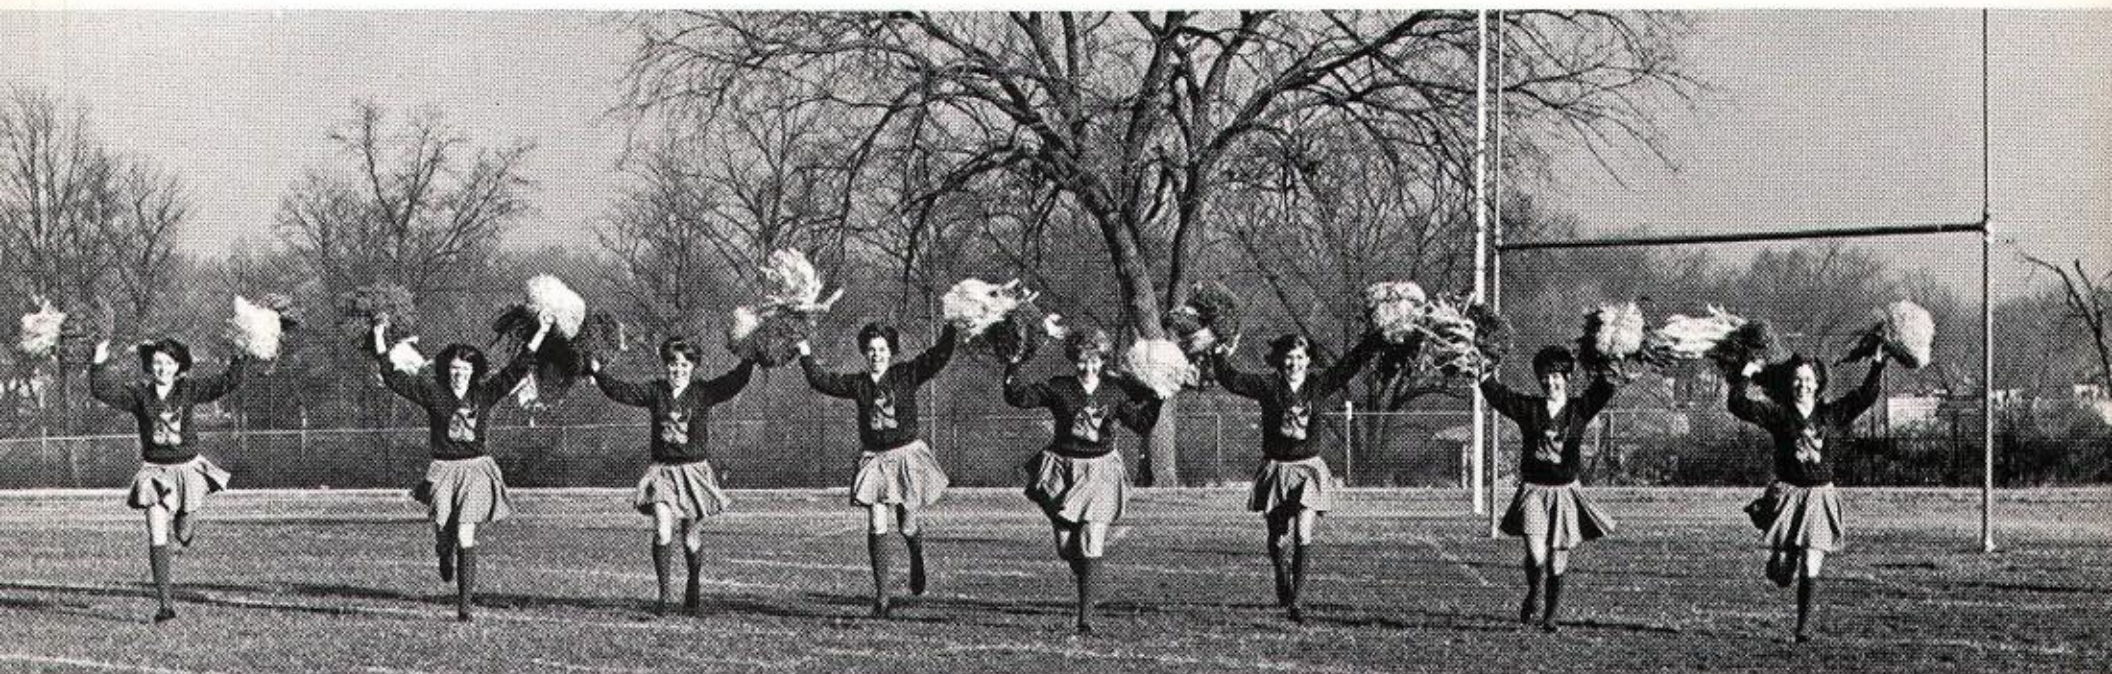

Cheerleaders could usually count on this yell to bring the response they wanted as they led the students in support of the Parkview teams.

Pep and enthusiasm was a major part of their lives. They helped with decorations for the lobby, the stadium, and the gymnasium; with equal vigor, they participated in pep assemblies and all the games.

This year's football assembly had a special theme, "Papa Viking Wants You." A portrait of "Papa" and his legend was presented to the student body. "Good Luck" and "Color Us Proud" was the co-ordinated theme for the basketball assembly, given before the game with the Joplin Eagles.

Summer and after-school practices found the cheerleaders barefoot and in cut-offs, shorts, and slacks, rehearsing their routines and cheers, but at game time they were a uniformed, trained squad, braving the cold of the football stadium in short circular skirts and knee socks and bringing added color to the basketball court in new Kelly green uniforms.

Viking Day was made a grand occasion with the pep assembly, a football triumph, and the Viking Festival dance. Elected queen, effervescent Chrissy Simon and her court reigned over the last half of the game and at the dance.

SPORTS

Come on in ... be a part. At Parkview, being a part of the sports program involved the majority of the student body with many students competing on teams that included freshmen, junior varsity, and varsity, and the others became a part through their enthusiastic support of these Viking athletes.

In the biting cold of the football stadium, in the steamy warmth of the gymnasium, in the spring briskness of the track and of the baseball diamond, on the tennis courts and the golf links athletes in green and gold put forth maximum effort to bring credit to their teams and to their school; and fans gathered to cheer them on to victory.

Added to the interscholastic sports competition this year was wrestling; and an extended intramural program brought a larger number of boys and, for the first time, girls into competitive sports. Parkview, through the years, has posted winning marks in conference, district, and state competition, and this year football, basketball, track, baseball, golf, tennis, and wrestling teams again carried the school's colors with dedication and success.

Vikings Tie for Second

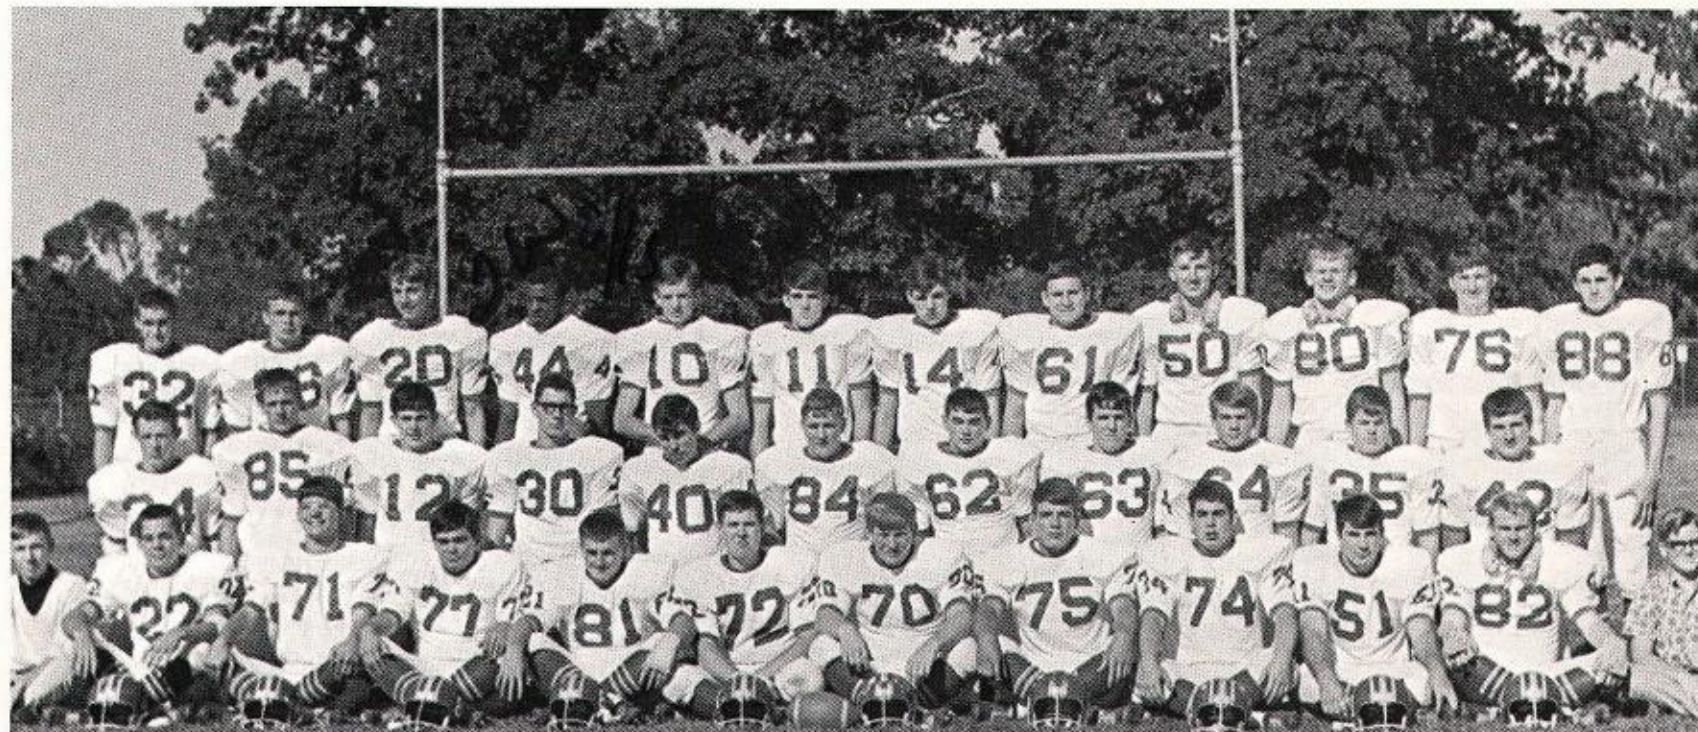

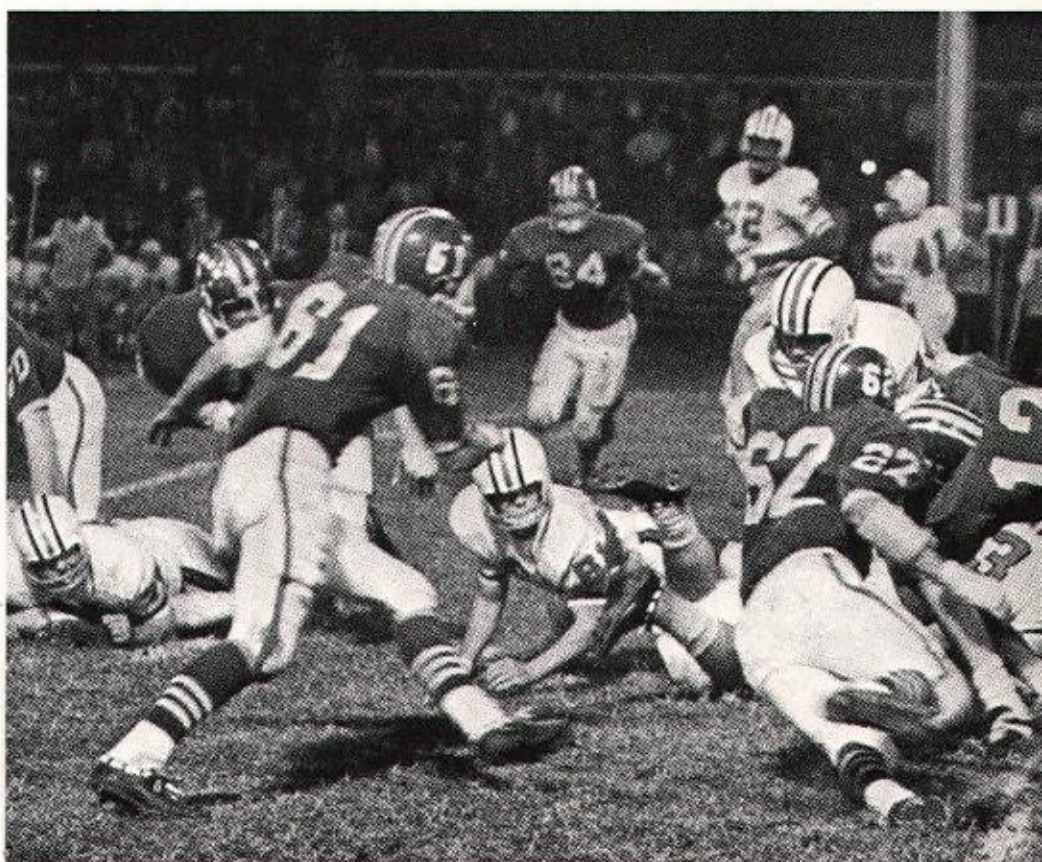

Facing some of the strongest foes in Missouri and a top-rated team in Oklahoma, the Viking football squad compiled a 6-4 record.

The Vikings began the grid campaign by whipping Neosho, dropping Kansas City Southwest, drubbing Joplin, and smashing William Chrisman. The next four outings weren't as fortunate as Parkview's Green and Gold fell before city foes Glendale and Central, to the Wildcats of Bartlesville, Oklahoma; and to the Jefferson City Jays. In the last two games of the season, the Vikings broke again into the winning column, pulling victory out of the grasp of city opponent Hillcrest and Sedalia Smith Cotton in closing moments of play.

The Vikings finished conference play in a tie with Joplin for second place. Named to the All-Ozark team was halfback Tony Wells with tackle Dan Oswalt, halfback Richard Wolfe, and center Chuck Morton winning places on the alternate unit. Wells, Oswalt, and Wolfe were also selected to play in a North-South All-Star high school football game making its debut in Busch Stadium in St. Louis. Oswalt was named Outstanding Player by the Parkview Booster Club.

The Vikings, co-captained by Dennis Nabors, Jim Martin, and Wells, were basically a senior starting squad with several juniors adding the necessary spark. Injuries sustained, hearts broken by defeat, and honors bestowed were all a part of the 1966 football season.

A William Chrisman runner (at left) heading for paydirt was halted by Chris Nicholson, number 62, as Gary Johnson, number 22, and John Counsil, number 30, charged in. Hurdling friend and foe, John Counsil, number 30, (below) started on an 11-yard ground gainer against Bartlesville, Oklahoma. Jim Martin, number 85, coming in to run interference, set his sights on an on-rushing Wildcat.

Hey, Hey, Paula,
Well, we've finally made it and it seems like it was just last year since we went to Phelps and played on the same baseball team. That was 6 yrs. ago and now we're grads.

Richard Wolfe drove a hard shoulder into Malcolm Hukriede, Glendale quarterback, as he lofted a pass. Into the scene of action charged Viking defenders Dan Oswalt, number 75; Chuck Morton, number 51; and Don Williams, number 74, to thwart any Falcon action.

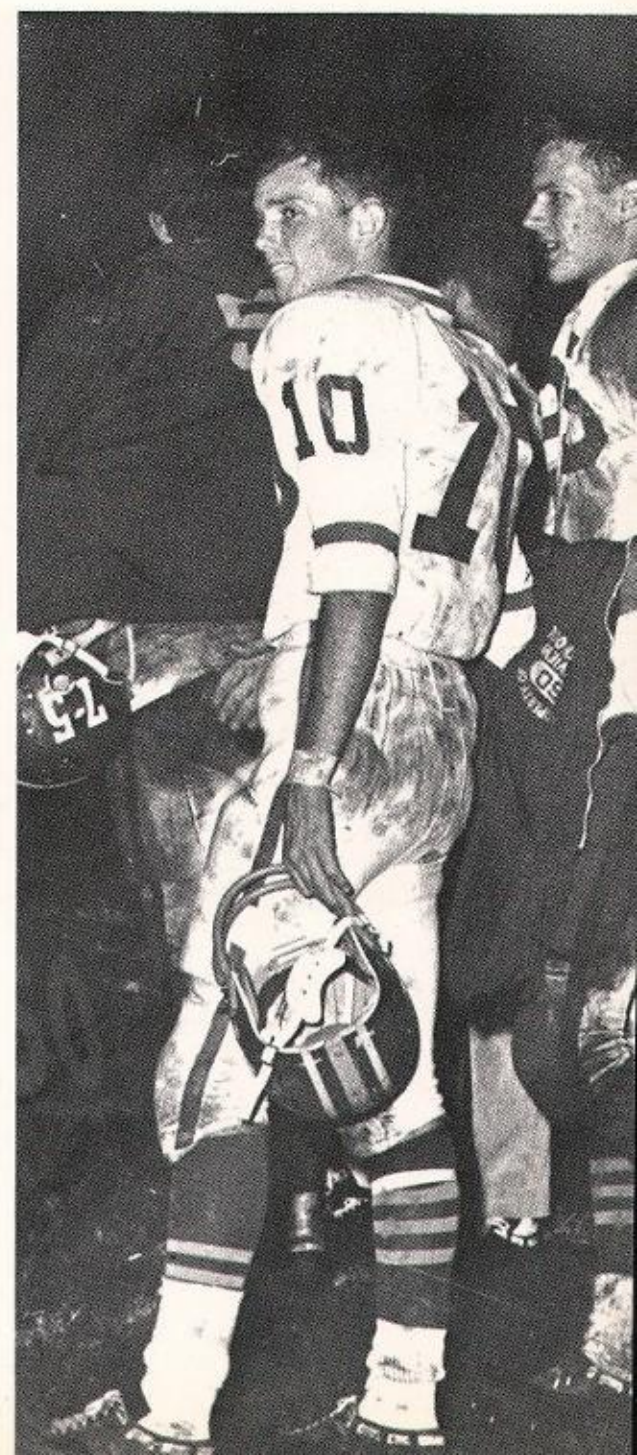

Quarterback Dennis Nabors (above) found the going a bit rough as he was surrounded by Central Bulldogs. Jack Broshears, number 86, threw a block as Don Williams, number 74, and Mike Tiller, number 61, pursued down field for a possible block. Co-captains Dennis Nabors, number 10, and Jim Martin, number 85, left the field, muddy from the conflict, but happy with the Viking Festival victory against William Chrisman.

Parkview's Vikings ran their number of straight home-court victories to 42 before falling to Joplin in the regional finals. They ended the season with a 20-win, 5-loss record. The Vikings played top-flight competition from Missouri, Arkansas, and Kansas on their regular season schedule.

They met such outstanding quintets as Paseo, Rockhurst and Central, 1966 Class L Champions, from Kansas City; Pittsburg, Kansas, last year's runnerup in the Kansas State Class AA Tournament; Bradleyville, Missouri, 1967 Class S State Champion; Buffalo, Missouri, 1967 runnerup in the Class M Tournament; as well as a tough Batesville, Arkansas team.

Green and Gold shared the Ozark Conference crown with Joplin after losing their first conference game in four years. Glendale, Central, and Hillcrest felt the power of the Viking quintet as they each fell victim twice in conference play.

Added to the list of tournament awards was the championship of the Buffalo Invitational Tournament and third place in the 21st annual Greenwood Blue and Gold Holiday Tournament. The Vikings were second in Class L Regional.

Parkview Vikings riding the bench (left) gave enthusiastic approval to the floor action of their teammates. Doug Bloch (number 32) (above) set up the play while Bud Rice (number 52) hustled to his position. Brent Wilson (number 14) (above right) had a clear path to two points against Glendale.

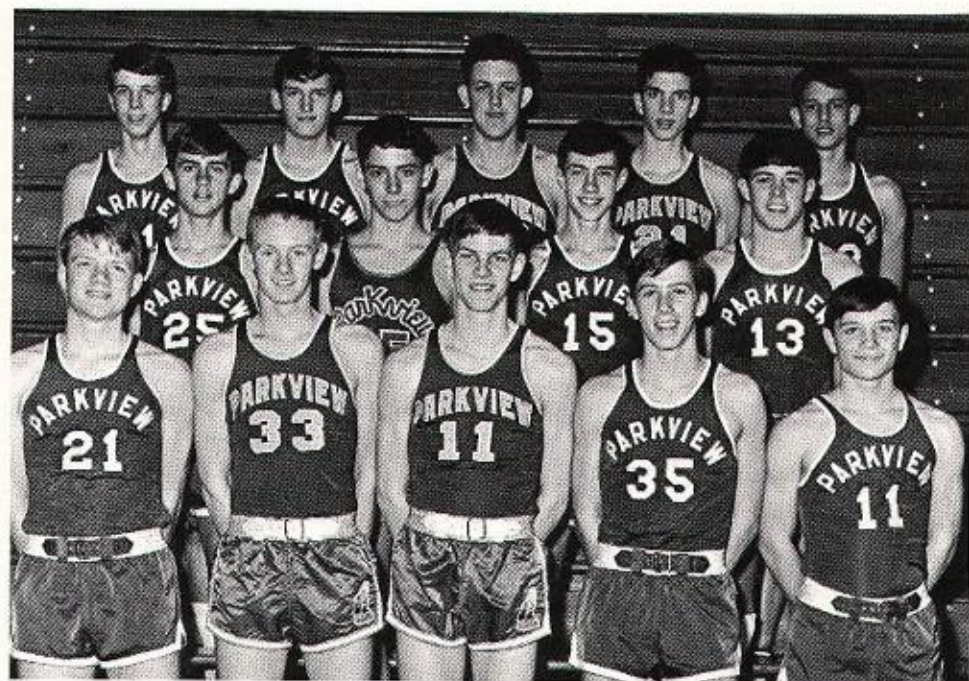

Vikes, Freshmen Win, Too

Parkview's Junior Varsity completed another winning season, compiling a 14-game winning streak along the way to a 16-3 record. Vikes' only defeats were by Jefferson City, Kansas City Rockhurst, and Glendale, whom they had beaten twice earlier in the season.

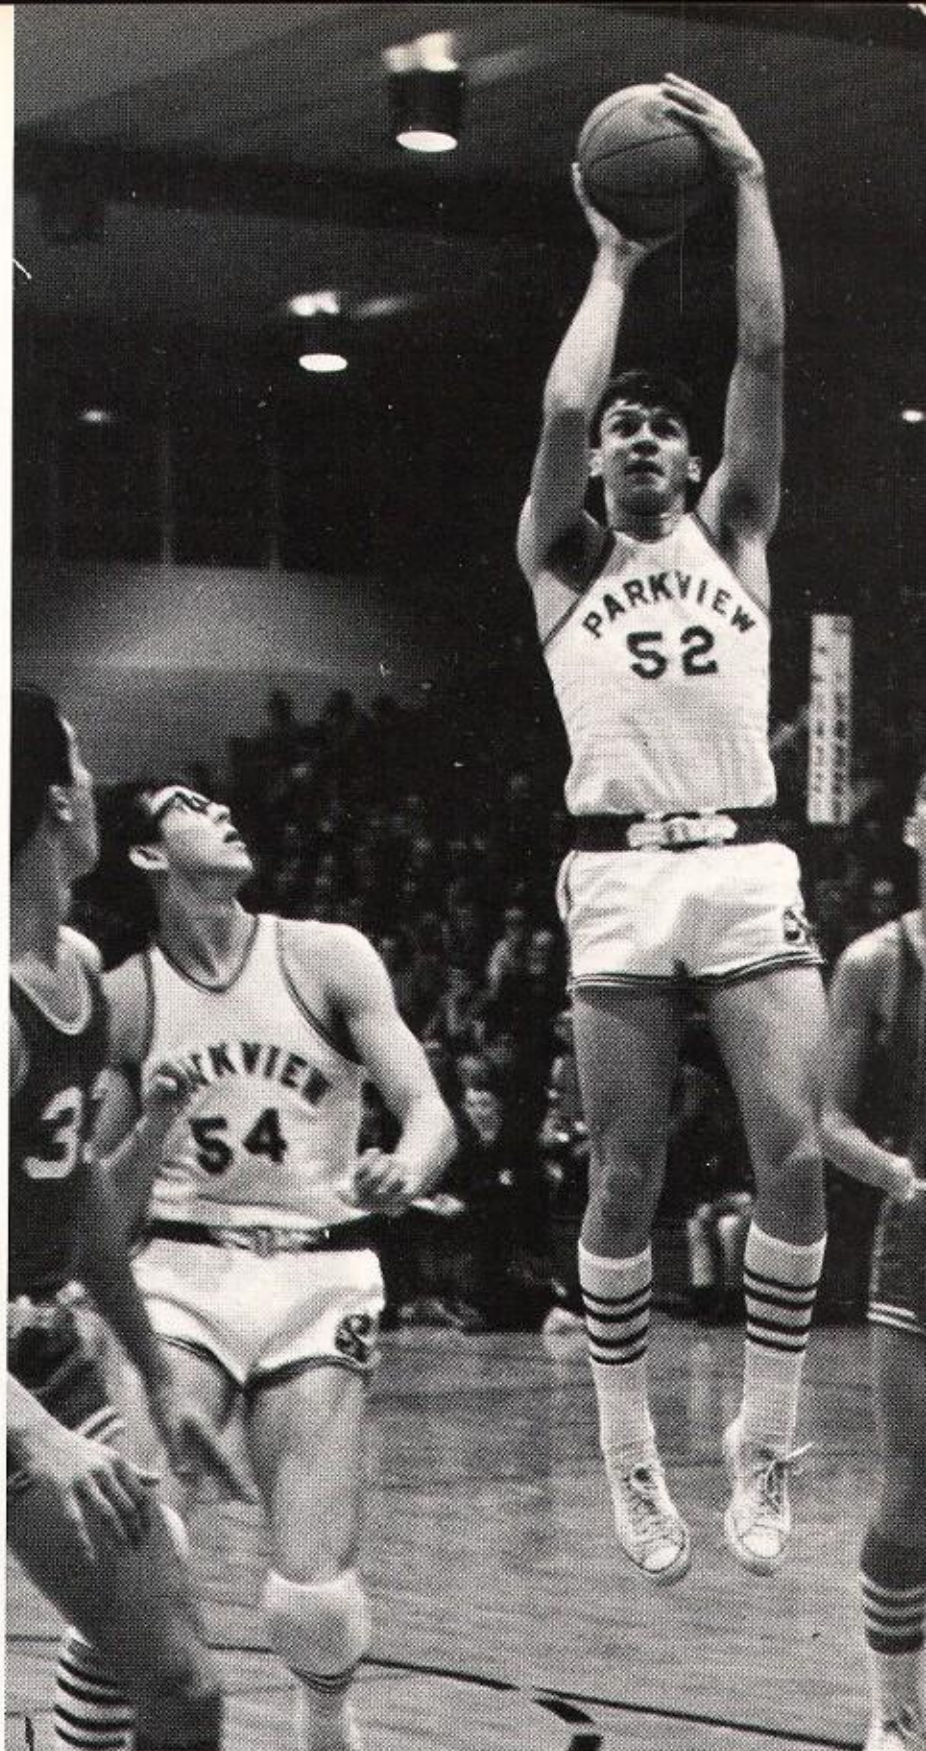

Vikes added to their list of achievements by winning the B team tournament held in January. They downed Glendale, 57-50, for the championship trophy. They also tied Glendale with a 7-1 record for the junior varsity top rank in the Ozark Conference. The Vikes defeated Hillcrest three times and handed double defeats to Central, Glendale, and Joplin.

Parkview freshman squads finished their first year of high school competition with successful records. Freshman "A" team completed the season with a 9-4 record, losing two games by two points and one game by a single marker. Parkview "A" defeated Willard and Glendale two times each. Freshman "B" squad finished with a 8-3 record, twice defeating Willard, Hillcrest, and Glendale teams.

Joplin star Thorpe Weber (number 55) had no adequate defense against Bud Rice (right) as he jumped to aim one for the hoop. Bottled-up Doug Bloch fought through a swarm of Hornets (below right) for possession of the ball.

Tournament Trophies Are Part of Year's Glory

Mike Pottenger (number 23) soared high above the Hillcrest defense (below left) as he zeroed in on the basket for this jump shot taken off the fast break in the Viking's first contest with the Hornets. Bud Rice (number 43) went high in the air (below center) in the contest with Kansas City Rockhurst. Tom Bollinger (number 45) awaited the possible rebound. David O'Reilly glided through the air with the greatest of ease (below right) with Hornets helplessly buzzing around. Rice, Bollinger, and O'Reilly were the big guns on offense.

Like the wing-footed god Mercury, the Parkview Vikings displayed a speed which made them a perennial victor in virtually every meet in Southwest Missouri. Carrying on their tradition of championship performance, the 1966 Viking thinclads carried home the championship trophy in the All-City Relays, the Springfield Relays, the Joplin Relays, the Southwest Missouri State Relays, the All-Relays meet, the Ozark Conference, the Class L District meet, and the Open House.

The 1966 season saw a shower of new meet and stadium records. In the All-Relays, Rick Richesin topped the stadium record in the pole vault as he cleared the bar at 13 feet, 4½ inches, which, added to the marks of Stan Rone and Bill Bothwell, resulted in a new vault relay record. The fleet feet of Mike Evans, Greg Jackson, Chris Macioce, and Johnny Vinson toppled the distance medley record.

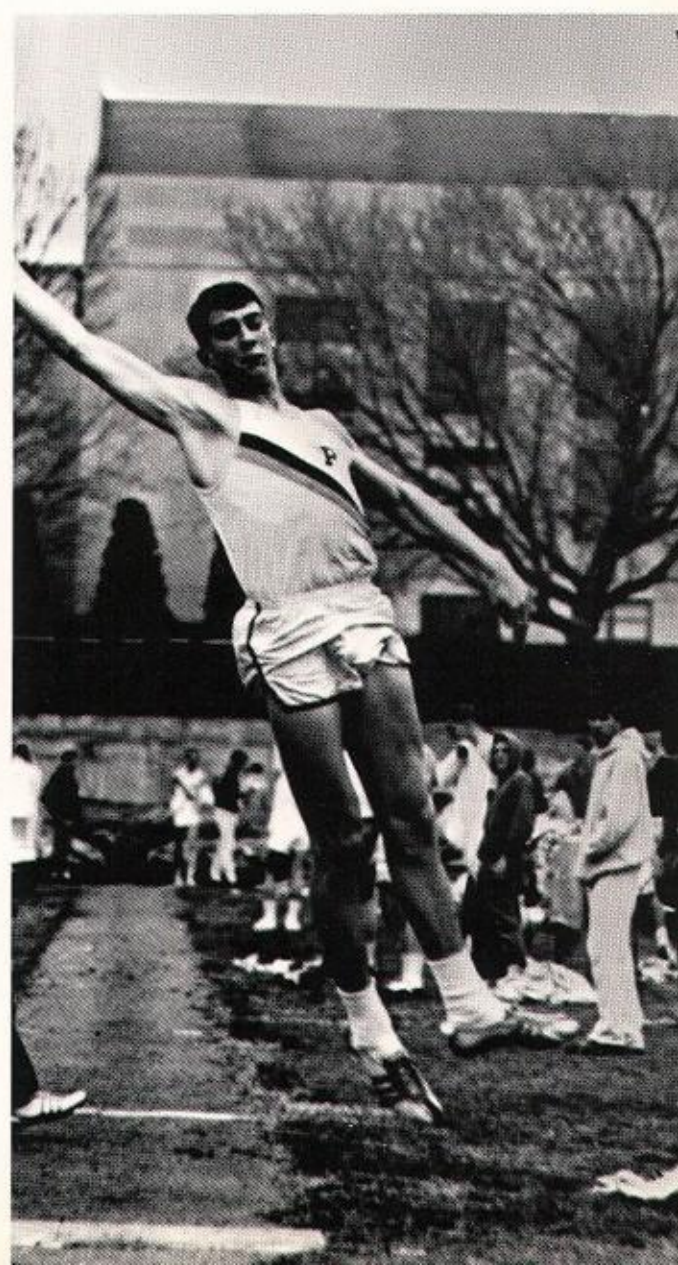

In the All-City meet, new records were set in the 440-yard relay, run by Tony Wells, Richesin, John Wright, and Greg Doty; in the 880-yard run by Macioce, and in the 220-yard dash by David Sturgis. In the SMS Relays, Wells lowered the 180-yard high hurdles mark, and in the Joplin Relays two records fell to the Vikings: to Macioce in the 880-yard run and to the two-mile relay team.

In the Springfield Relays, Richesin's 13 feet, 7-inch pole vault was a new stadium and a new meet mark and also a record for Southwest Missouri. Vikings also posted stadium records in the shuttle hurdle relay and in the low hurdles and meet marks in the half mile and in the discus toss. In the Ozark Conference meet, Richesin raised his own vault record to 13 feet, 10 inches.

The 1967 season was still in the future as this volume of the Viking Log was being completed. But promising workouts and the return of champion veterans led the Viking fans to expect the same championship performance.

Vikings Hot on Cinders

Rick Richesin (far left) vaulted to a new Southwest Missouri record in the 1966 track season, clearing the bar at 13 feet, 10 inches. The 1967 squad donned bright yellow warm-up suits and took to the hills early in order to be in shape for the first meet. Even in February an occasional day was warm enough to encourage Ron Hampton and Richard Wolfe to strip for action and charge off the starting blocks in champion form for future track action.

On land or in the air, Tony Wells (above and at left) was a champion competitor, setting 1966 records in both high and low hurdles and contributing to the 440-yard relay record. More or less the leaning tower of Parkview, David O'Reilly (far left) put all his effort into his broad jump at SMS.

Parkview diamond men experienced an erratic 1966 season compiling only five wins against ten losses in regular-season play. Vikings lost squeakers to Hillcrest, Joplin, and Central in conference action. Among the wins of the Green and Gold were a rout over the Rogersville nine and victories over Glendale, Central, and Joplin.

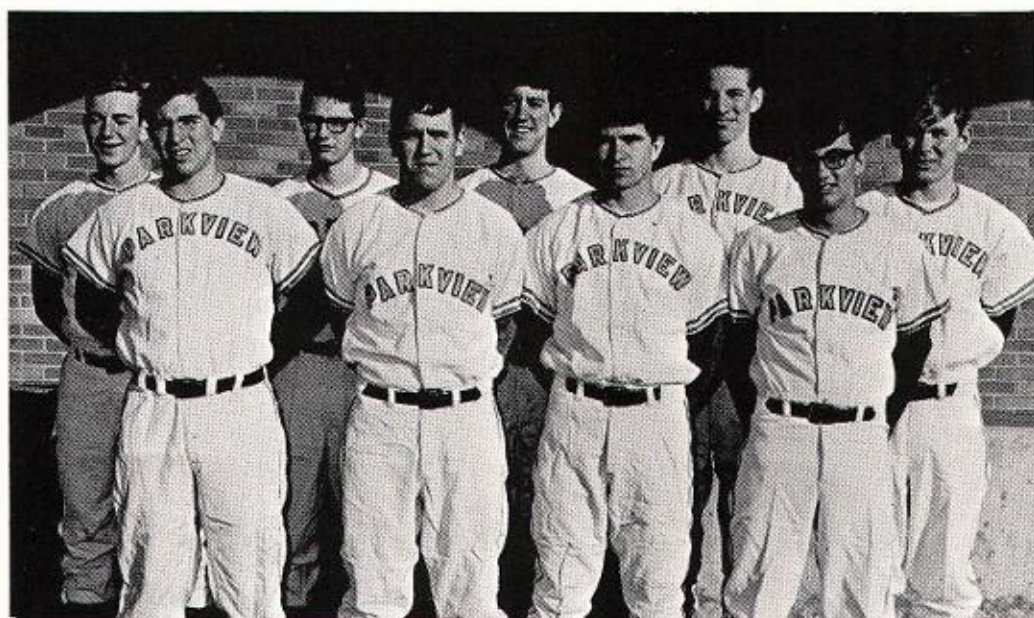

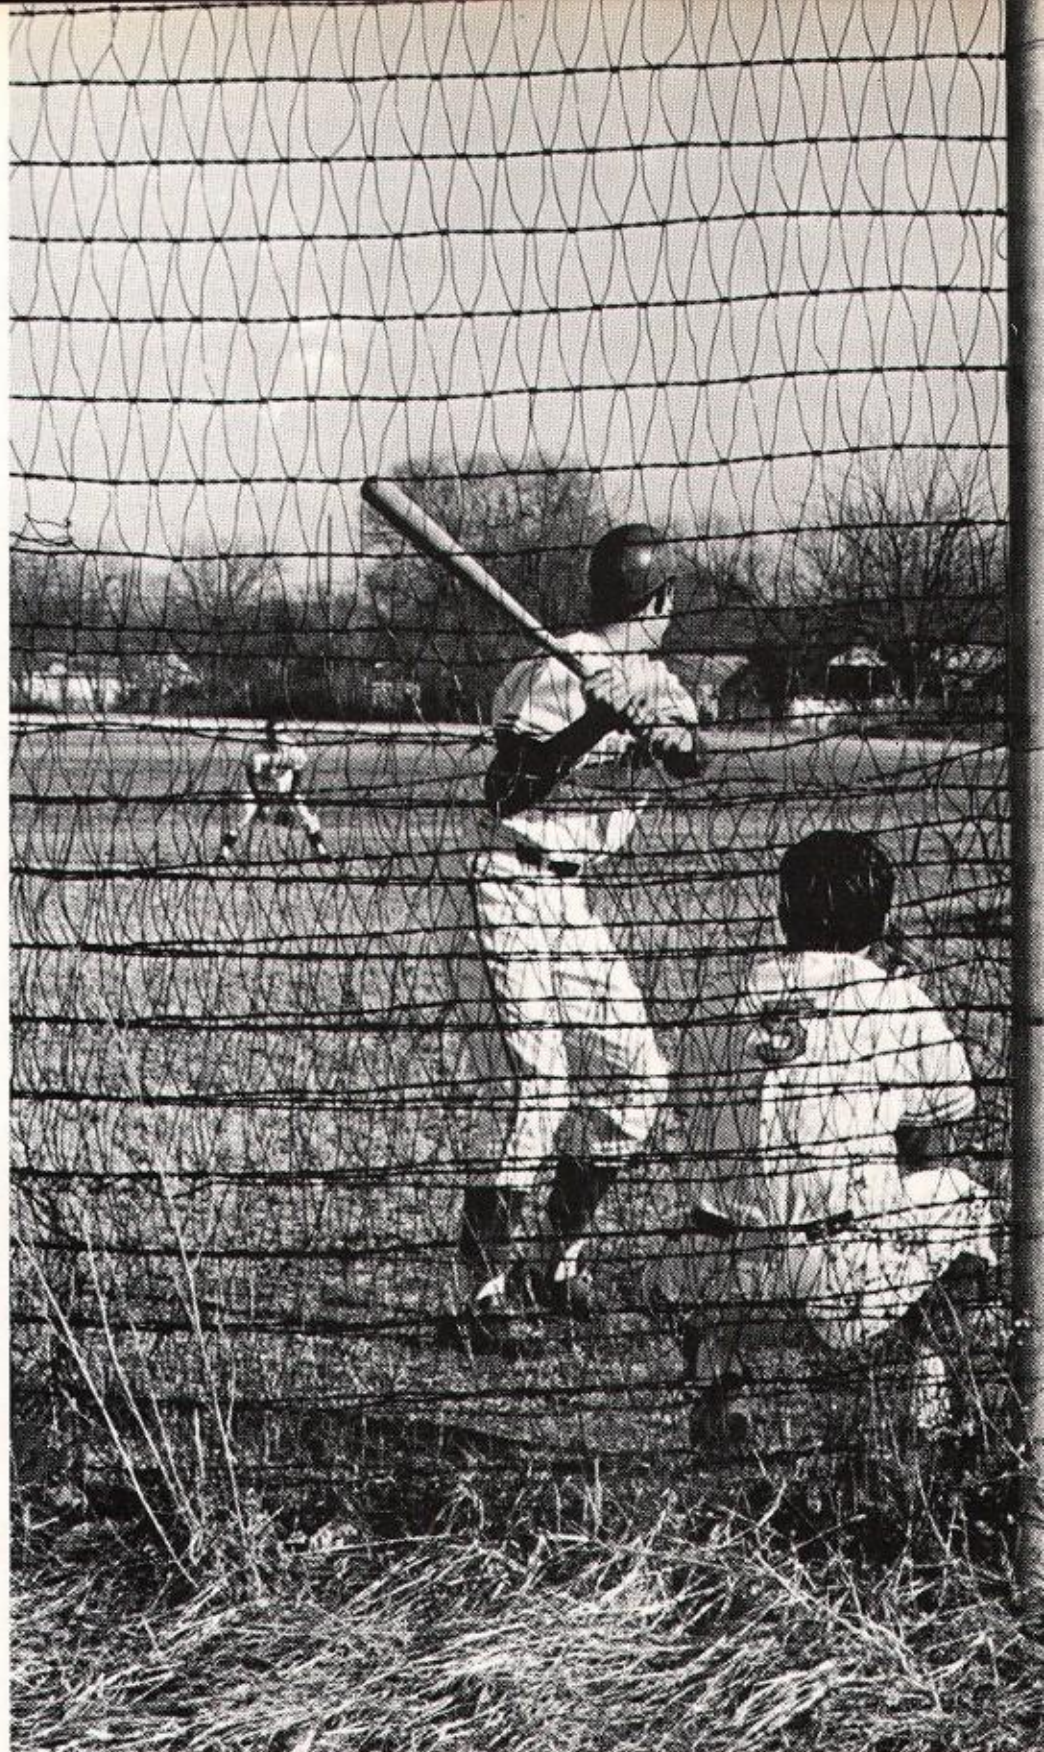

The wins over the conference foes accounted for an over-all 3-6 record for the Ozark Conference. Granite City gave Parkview all of the competition it needed, handing the Vikings a decisive drubbing.

Among the honors bestowed upon the players was an offer to Rick Davis by a professional team.

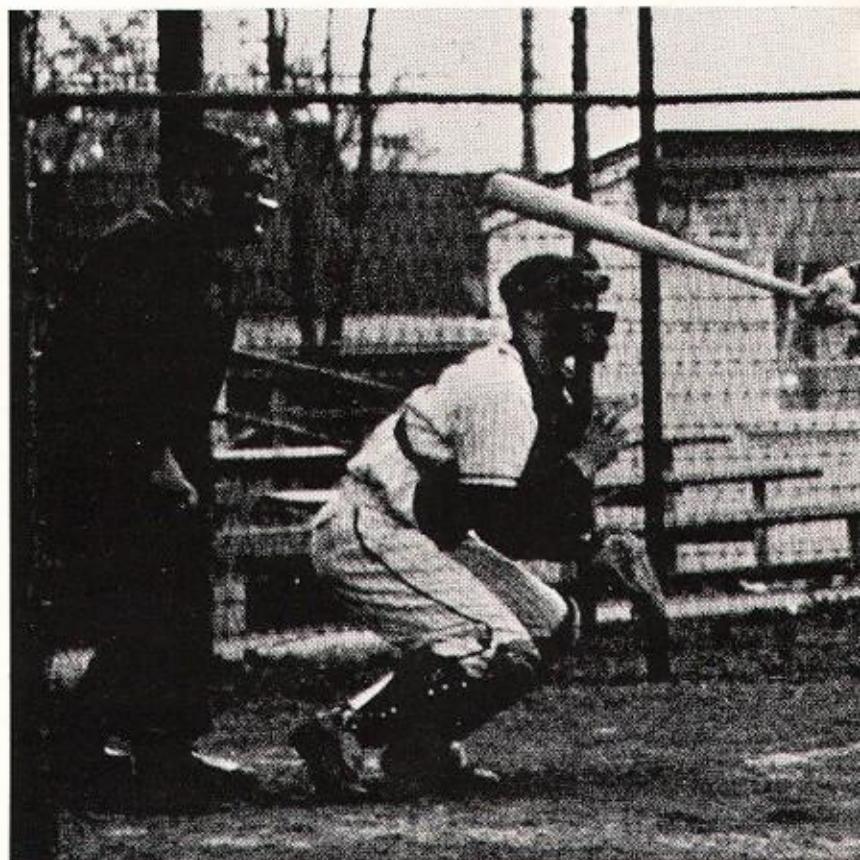

The 1967 squad had not been organized as the Viking Log was being completed, but the return of nine lettermen helped to weigh the scales of fortune favorably for the Viking team.

Nine Returnees Boost Diamond Season

Doug Bloch waited with poised bat to give a ride to the ball Doug Randall was serving up to him. Jim Loftis squatted fearlessly without any protective gear behind the plate as this was only a pre-season warm-up (left). Doug (below) stretched to deliver his best ball to the waiting batter.

Jim Loftis (above) tried a slide over winter grass into third base and the waiting glove of Gary Whorton, proving the players' condition was better than that of the field in late February. In a 1966 game with Joplin, switch-hitting Doug Bloch (left) was ready to take off as he slammed an Eagle pitch.

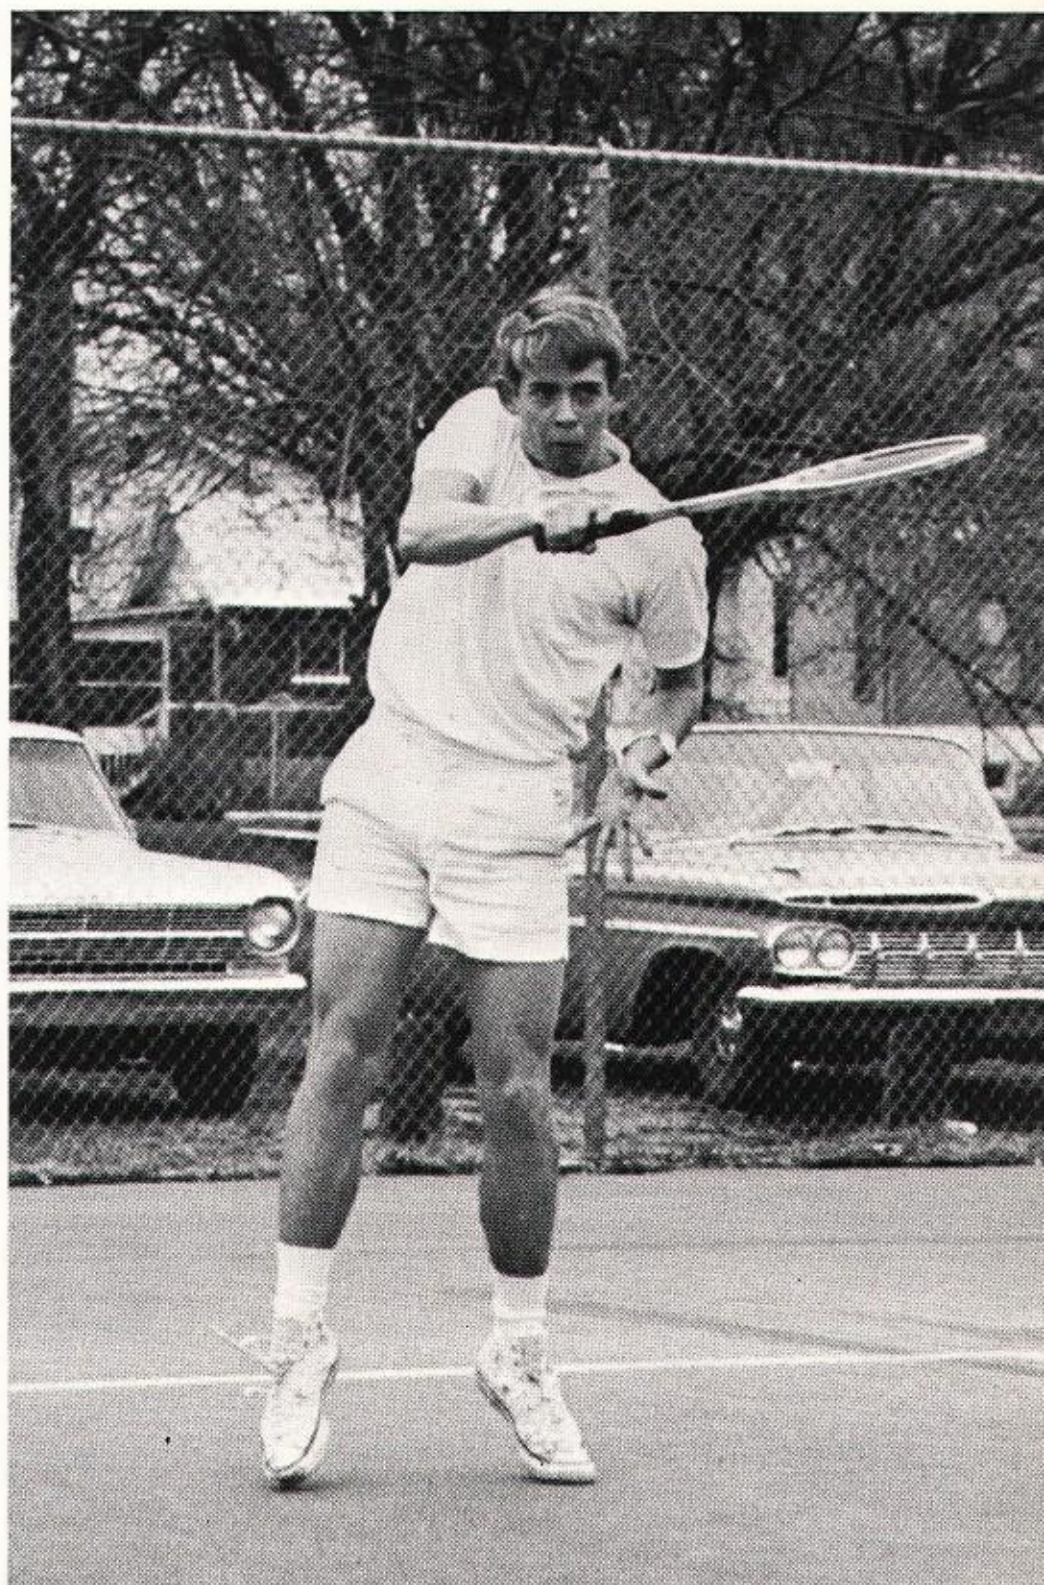

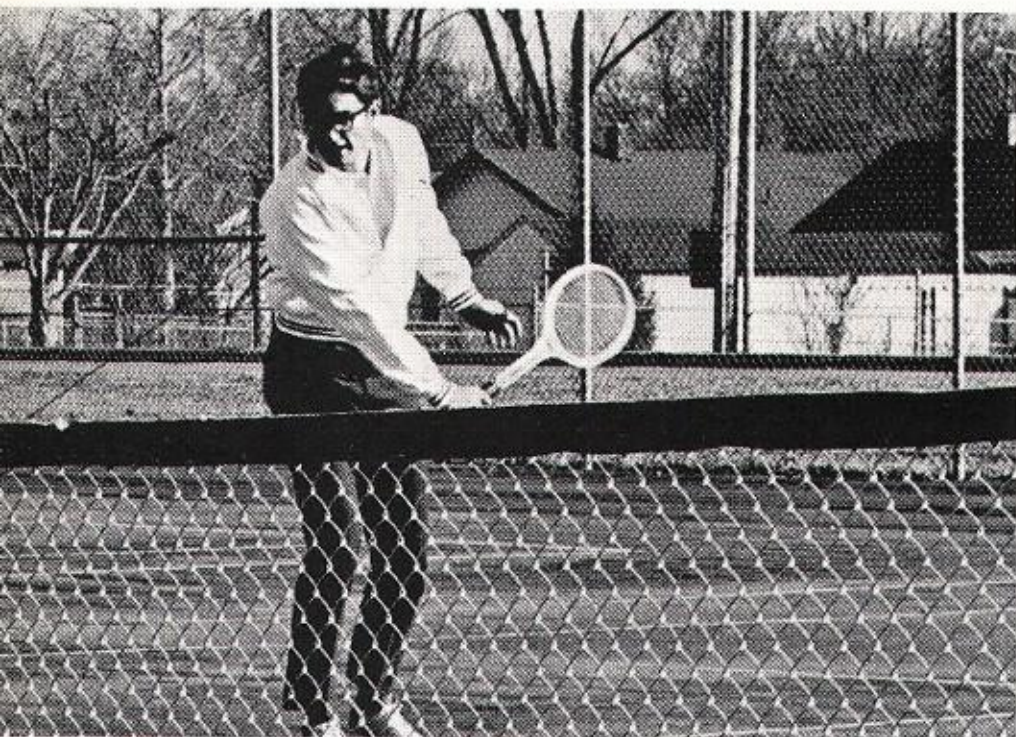

Netters and linksmen played an important role in copping the 1966 All-Sports trophy for Parkview.

The Green and Gold was successful in winning the Southwest Missouri State Relays, in repeating as champions in the Ozark Conference, and in bringing home honors from district and state competition.

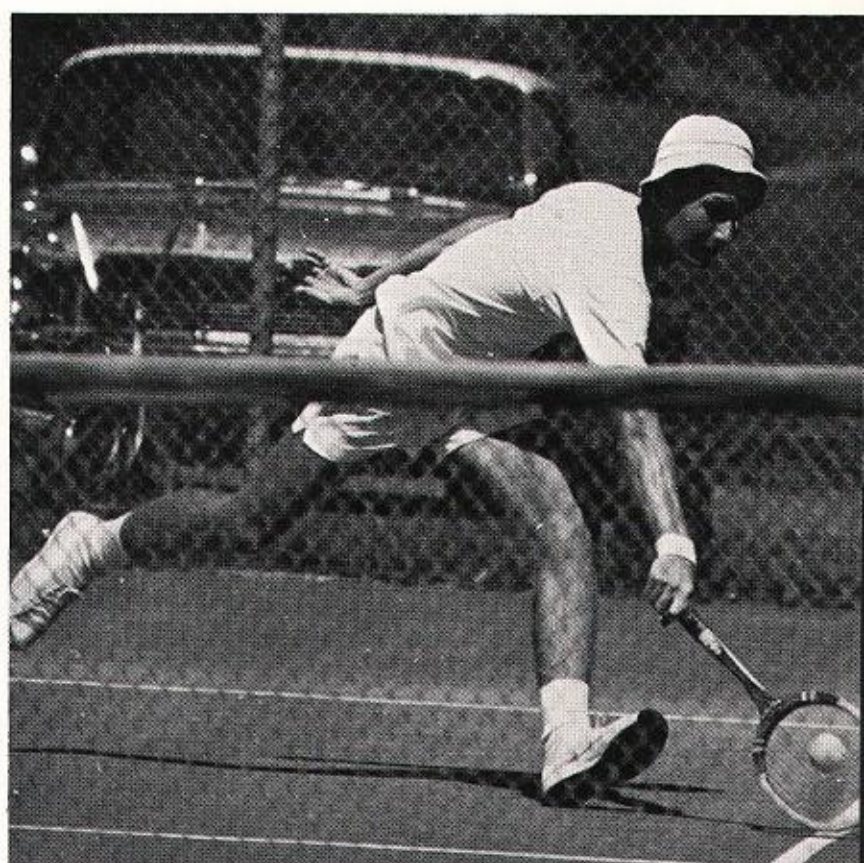

Netters Phil Pinnell and Lynn Morris piled victory upon victory as they won the district doubles and were finally put down in the semi-finals in the state tournament.

Golf at Parkview in the 1967 season could boast only one returning letterman, Mike Goodwin. The 1966 golf squad won first place in the SMS Relays and second in the Ozark Conference. Golfers in the '66 season were unscathed in city competition except for a tie with Glendale in one match.

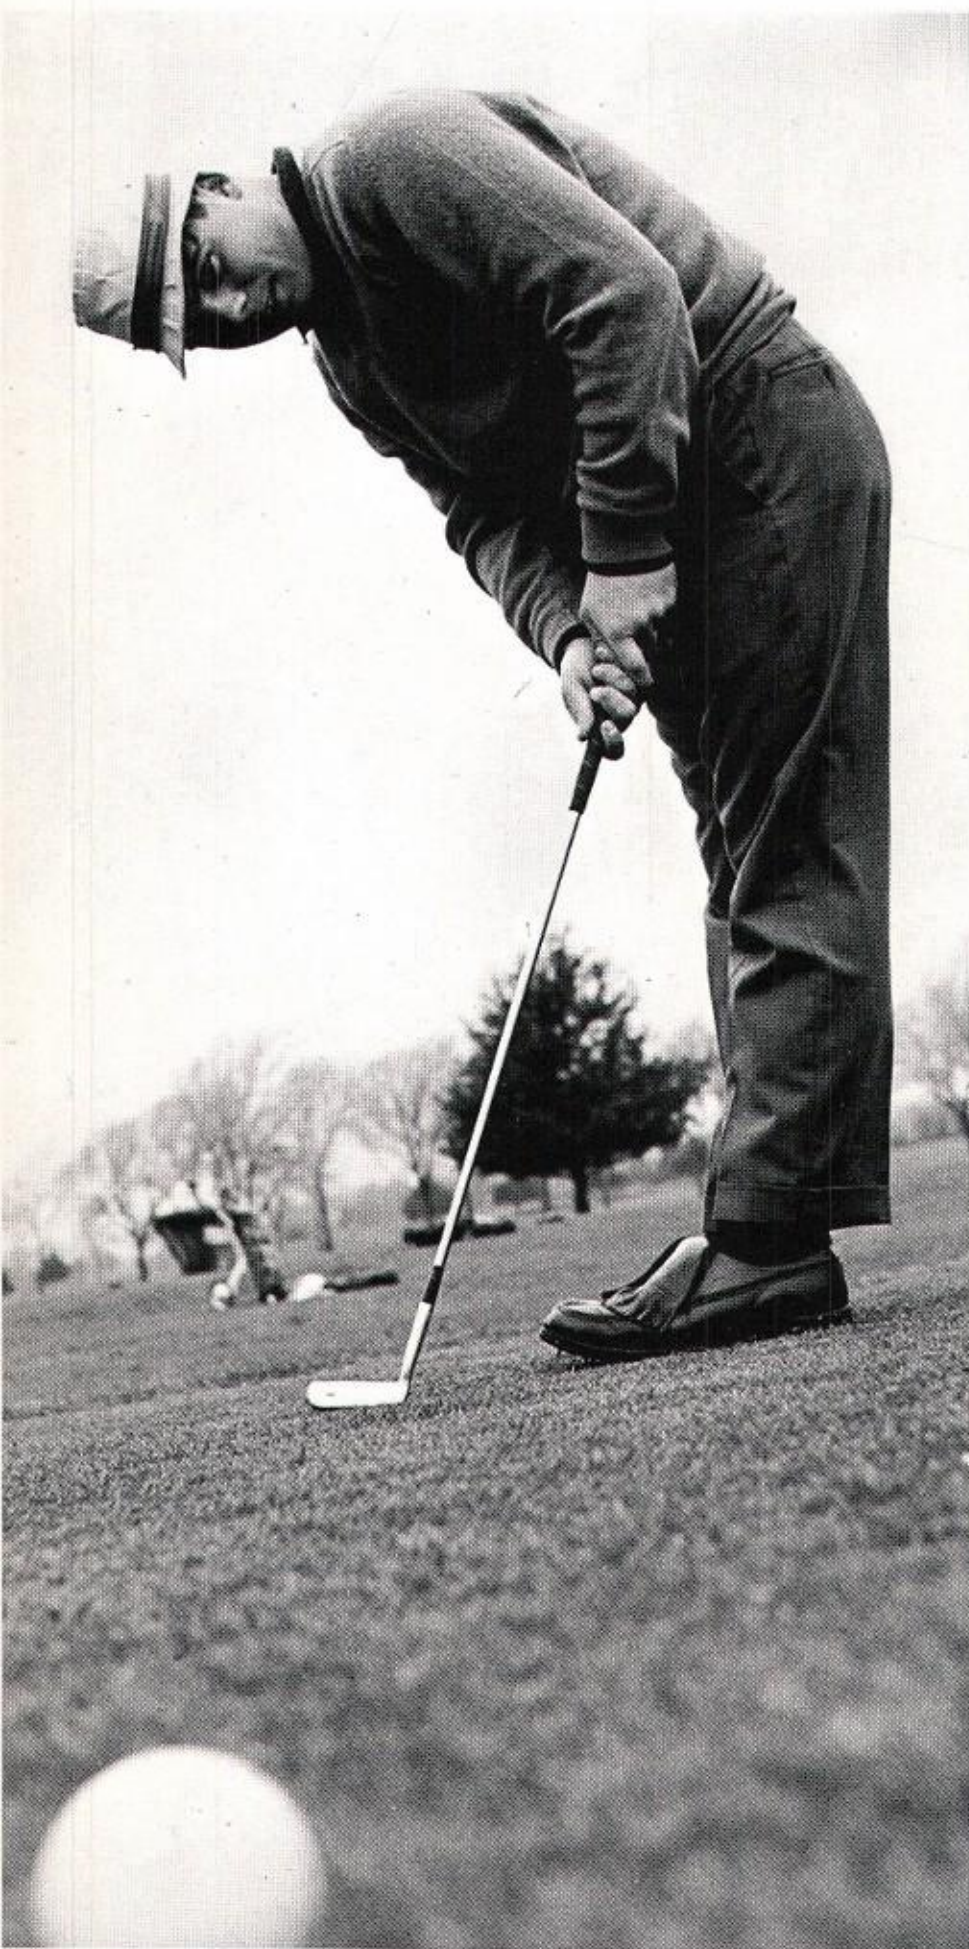

Cold February winds and below-freezing temperature discouraged, but did not deter Lynn Morris from limbering up his racket (below). In the balmy days of April, 1966, Al Bothwell (right) unleashed his power against an Ozark Conference opponent. Phil Pinnell (lower right) teamed with Morris to capture the doubles' championship in the district meet.

Tennis, Golf Squads Add to PHS Sports Rank

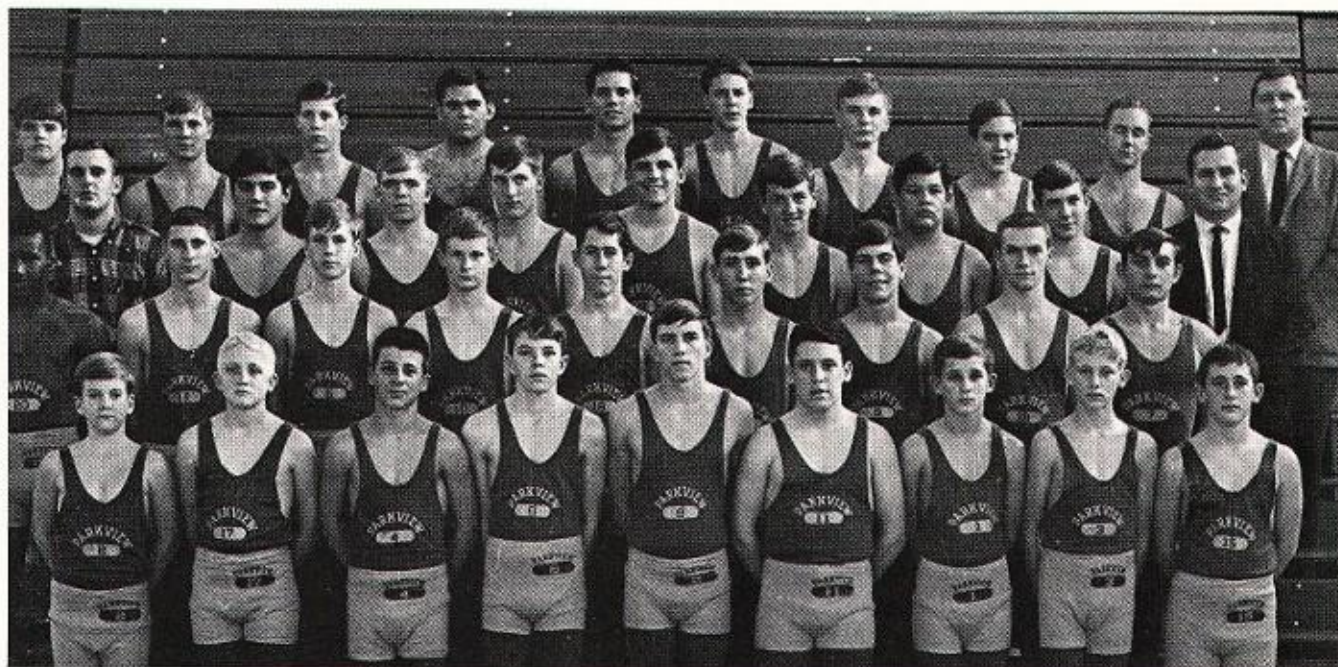

PHS golfers were in a rough situation with Mike Goodwin (left) the only returning letterman; but Rusty Carr, Mike Pottenger, Stan Logan, and Greg English (top) and Ellen Coring, Marti Holbert, and Jenny Baldwin (above) braved cold February winds with Coach Harlin Hutsell to come to grips with the problem.

Inter-scholastic wrestling became an integral part of Parkview's sports department in a somewhat unusual yet convincing manner.

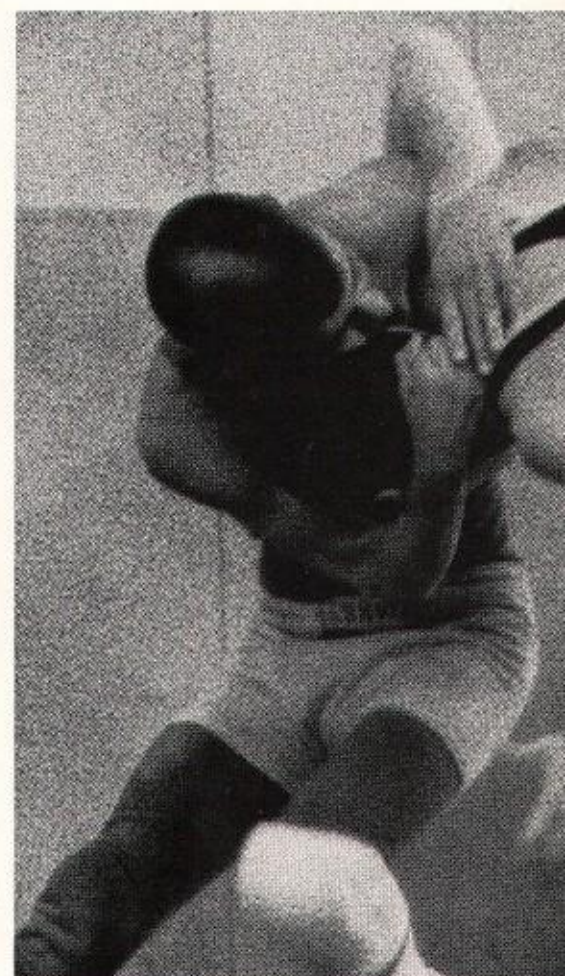

At the beginning of the wrestling season things were a bit gloomy looking as Parkview lost to Central, 35-23. The outlook was still dreary as Glendale handed the Vikings their second loss, 35-10. Not to be denied, Parkview came back to beat Hillcrest, 30-23, and then wound up the short season by capturing the championship and Springfield's first wrestling trophy in the all-city tournament.

In the all-city meet, the Green and Gold had 85 points to runner-up Glendale's 80. Hillcrest tied down third place with 69 points, while Central took the cellar position with 61 points. Coaches ranked Richard Moore and Bruce Underwood as top Parkview grapplers.

In this first year of competition only freshmen, sophomores, and juniors were used in the matches which were limited to participation by the four public city highs.

Opponents Floored By PHS Wrestlers

Don Bailey (left) and his opponent assume the starting position as they prepared to grapple in the Central gymnasium in the first competition for Viking wrestlers. Chris Meyers (below) tangled with Central's Buddy Allen. Chris was pinned and the Vikings were out-pointed, 35-23, by the CHS Bulldogs.

Carl Hefner didn't waste time in grappling with his opponent in the city-wide wrestling tournament (left). Carl started Parkview's winning streak by defeating his opponent from Central. Lester Hilton came out on top in his battle at the wrestling match with the Bulldogs held at CHS early in the season (above).

Paula,

Well my Freshman year is over & yours is just starting. (ha!)

It's been great knowing you. You're a great girl with a matching personality. Good Luck at S.M.S and all through life.

See ya -

Intramural Program Expands This Year

This picture is very appropriate!

Ron Ringness tried to block a shot by Jim Martin in an afternoon intramural game (right), as Tony Wells and Dennis Hughes waited to rebound if necessary. Becky Erwin (below) demonstrated good follow through in her bowling swing at the intramural bowling matches, open also to girls.

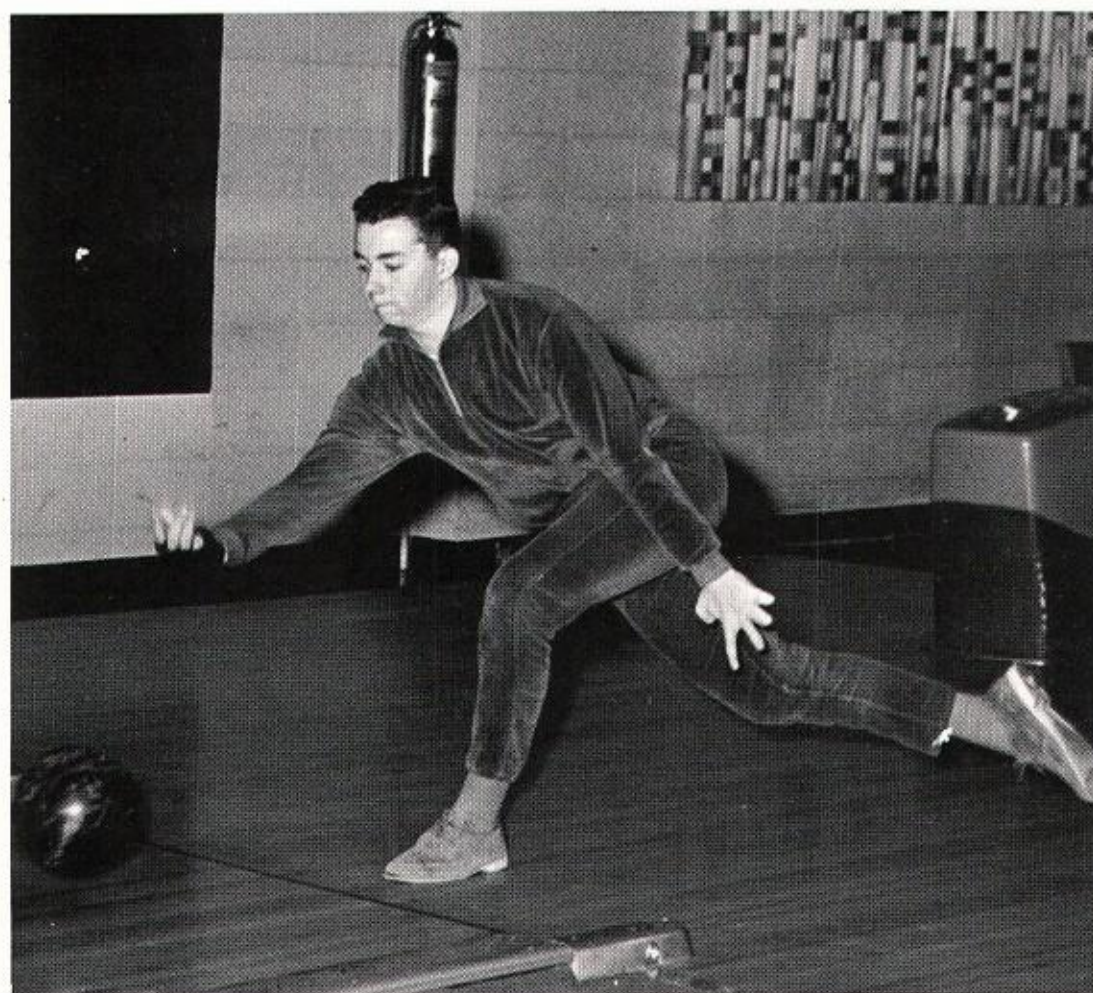

Parkview's intramural program climbed to newer heights this year under the guidance of Mr. Clifford McLain. Basketball had been an intramural activity for a number of years, but this year the program was enlarged to include softball, wrestling, and basketball with an opportunity for participation in tennis and golf also open. For the first time also, girls could participate as bowling was initiated.

Softball started out the intramural slate. The Buzzards, composed of juniors, took top laurels, defeating the Gentrys, 6-2.

Bowling teams for both boys and girls were formed, and the participants met each Tuesday and Thursday at Sherm Lollar Lanes. Highlight of this activity was the match in which the intramural champions, the Ball Busters, challenged the skill of the faculty bowlers and were defeated.

New on the sports scene at Parkview this year was wrestling. This sport was conducted as both an intramural and an interscholastic sport among the city schools. On the intramural level, contests in weight classes determined the ten champions of the school.

Back to defend their crown in intramural basketball were the Instigators, who as juniors won the 1966 tournament. The end of intramural basketball came in late March as the 1967 champions lost to the faculty cagers.

A Gentry runner beat the throw to first in the championship intramural game with the Buzzards, as darkness slowly enveloped the field. John Moore, playing first base for the Buzzards, waited for the late throw (left). Kurt John concentrated on rolling a strike as he competed in intramural bowling (above).

Paula,
 Well, we got through four years of this place together. Maybe we can get through four years at S.M.S. together.
 It's been fun being in class with you these last four years. I hope we continue to be good friends for a long time.
 Have fun in school this summer. Be good & good luck to you in your coming year.
 friend.

Paula,
I don't know you very well but I know that you're a real good bowler, so I'll just admire you?

Come on in ... be a part. From the over-five-hundred freshmen who entered last fall to begin their experience as high school students to the more-than-four-hundred seniors, being a part of Parkview meant working together to keep it an outstanding school.

During the busy year, some of the activities were planned for class groups. Among these were the Mixer for the freshmen to open the fall events, College Day for the juniors and seniors in late fall, Vocational Clinic for the juniors and seniors in mid-winter, and the Prom, Breakfast, Baccalaureate, and Commencement for the seniors bringing the year to a climax.

Some of the school events were planned for all the students. Among these were the Viking Festival, the Basketball Dance, the elections of royalty and officers for the student body and the classes.

Over 1900 individuals gathered in the building that is Parkview and became class groups, clubs, committees, and a student body. They were a part of the work, a part of the association, a part of the life.

Doors Open to Freshmen

Come on in . . . be a part. Open doors invited more than five hundred freshmen into a busy high-school life.

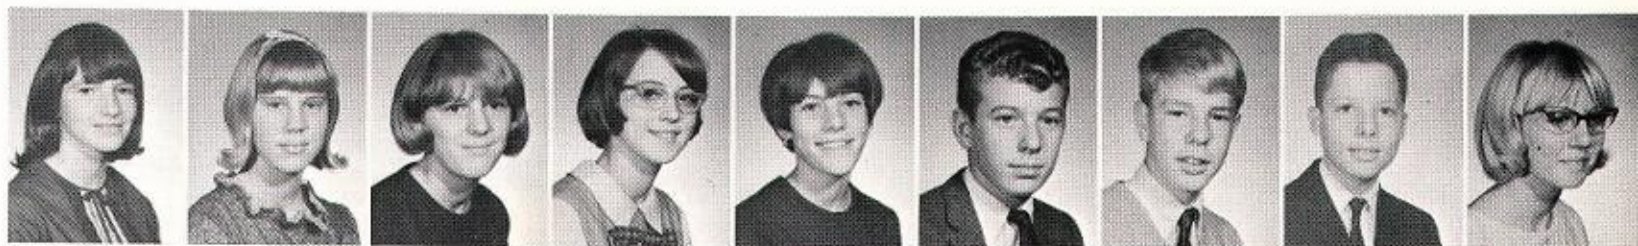

Being a part of Parkview was, at first, confusing, but it didn't take long for the freshmen to get into the swing of things. They had to bear the brunt of the traditional jokes made by the upperclassmen, but these they took with good humor and soon earned the respect of their fellow students.

Freshman teams in all phases of sports competition had good seasons and made exciting prospects for the junior varsity and varsity teams. Required courses in the curriculum laid the foundation for growing competence in the fields of English, science, mathematics, and the social studies, while opportunities for electing classes in foreign language, speech, and the practical and fine arts added dimension to their study.

Leading the way into the life and activity of the school were the officers: Steve White, president; Gene Hutchens, vice-president; and Martha Ramsey, secretary.

Freshmen were a part of Parkview's student life whether they were waiting in line for all-school pictures for the Viking Log or providing the big "boom" in the cadet band. Wielding the big stick is Bill Brunner under the baton of Mr. Bob Abbott, student teacher.

Every Day a Multitude Is Fed

Hungry students filled their trays at the lunch lines and then filled the cafeteria during the five lunch periods, run in an hour and thirty minutes. Hot plate lunches and snacks sustained the 1900 students through afternoon classes until an opportunity for after-school treats or refrigerator raids.

Sophs Join Papa Viking

Come on in ... be a part. Being a part of student life at Parkview can be exhausting at times, so sophomore officers Bruce Pfander, president; Martha Kershenbaum, secretary, and Artie McNeese, vice-president, paused on the patio with Papa Viking to catch their breath and review the past year.

With the uncertainty of their first year in high school behind them, Parkview's sophomore class entered into this year's activities with confidence and energy. Assisted by Papa Viking, they worked toward the fulfillment of their goals for their high-school years. They were to be found at work in all fields of curricular and extra-curricular endeavor.

The sophomores participated in the all-school talent assembly, displayed their prowess on the athletic field, and added their voices to others at pep rallies and games. They were also an interested part of Student Council and safety programs.

They grew toward maturity and were given new responsibilities when they received their drivers' licenses, one of the important milestones to be passed during a high school career.

They added skill and enthusiasm to the school's activities, and their accomplishments during the year helped Parkview retain its outstanding record of achievement.

Parkview's sophomores had many opportunities to display their talents this year. Artie McNeese and Debby Likins presented piano solos in the all-school talent assembly, "Parkview '66." Gary Deaver, one of the most versatile of the sophomores, has appeared in several dramatic productions. As Louis, he waits with Mrs. Catherine Strom, in the role of Anna, as the ship approaches Bangkok. The scene was from the Little Theatre presentation, "The King and I."

Juniors Take Hold

Come on in . . . be a part. Juniors took this invitation to heart and became a vital element of the Parkview student body as they moved into the coveted spot as upperclassmen.

They were busy this year, for their schedule of classes included advanced courses in language arts, science, mathematics, and the social sciences with electives in fields they wished to explore. They also spent important hours scheduling for their senior year and poring over college bulletins in their counselor's office.

They attended College Day to meet with representatives of various colleges so that they would have some concrete ideas on the type of additional education they would need, and they received help in selecting the vocation they would enter during Vocation Day, a time for investigation of various fields of employment.

In every important part of school activity, members of the junior class were there. Whether it was playing football, basketball, or cheering the teams to victory, they participated with enthusiasm and effectiveness. Important among the hands that got the job done this year were those of the class officers: Dan Ramsdell, vice-president; Al Bonebrake, president; and Donna Mueller, secretary.

Where should I go to college? With this question uppermost in their minds, juniors and seniors attended the annual College Day sessions. Representatives from Christian College and Texas Christian University, two of the thirty schools participating, met with groups in the Student Center. Opportunities in the Naval Reserve were discussed in one of the cafeteria groups.

Everyone Gets Ready for the Big Game

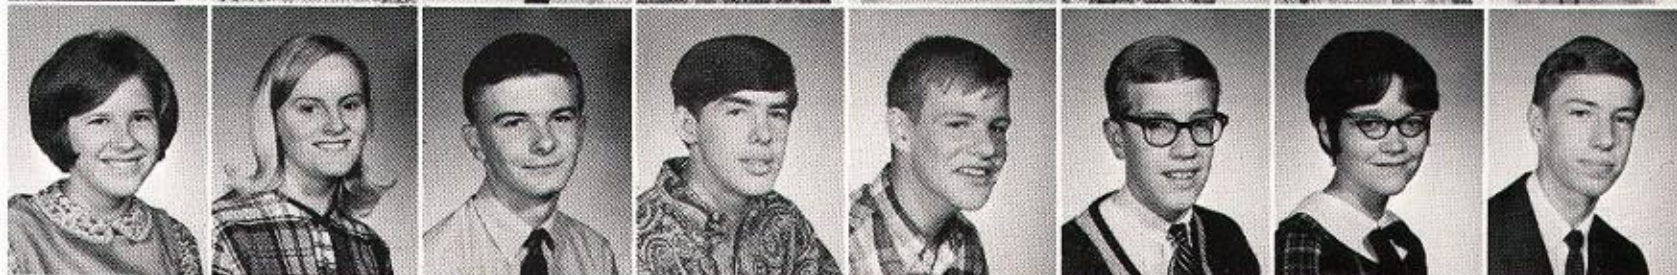

Pep Squad members Becky King, Cathy Pfander, and Karen McQueary, with the courage and dexterity of high-wire performers, decorated the goal posts before one of the football games. Before-the-game enthusiasm was generated with a pep assembly in which Coach Harlin Hutsell presented Viking captains: Dennis Nabors, Tony Wells, and Jim Martin, to lead off the team's introduction.

Parkview Joins the Parade

A part of community activities as well as those of the school, Parkview students were involved in the annual Christmas parade. Colorful contributions were the Parkview Marching Band and the American Field Service float. On the all-city AFS float were Ann Anthony, summer AFS student from Parkview, and Karen Titmus, the AFS representative from Tasmania, Australia.

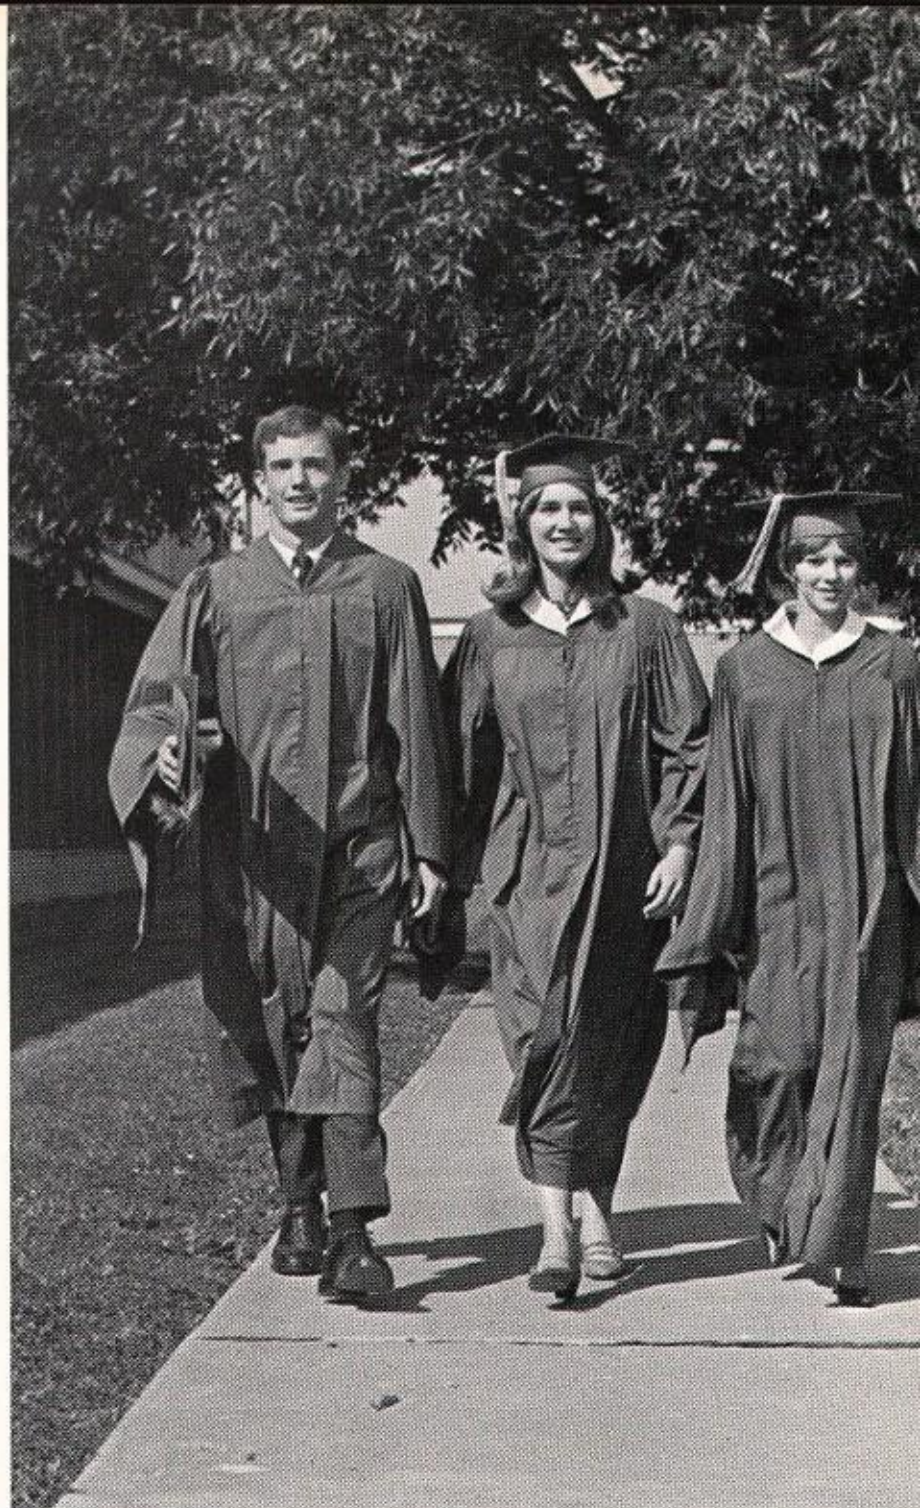

Seniors Lead with Confidence

Come on in . . . be a part. It was just September, but no one could resist the opportunity to be a part of the graduating class by trying on the traditional cap and gown—even if the fit wasn't perfect. Senior officers Dennis Nabors, president; Lynne Doelling, vice-president; and Tedda King, secretary, tried a quick processional practice.

For four years the seniors have been a part of the life and work at Parkview. They participated in the Viking Festival, school assemblies, and the ordinary, but important, classroom activities with enthusiasm. Seniors made outstanding contributions in athletics, Student Council, speech, music, publications, and academic fields.

June 5, 1967, is the climax of the year for over 400 seniors as they march into the gym to the measured beat of "Pomp and Circumstance" for the Commencement exercises. Some members of this class will go directly into jobs, but many will continue their education. Many years of studying, homework, and testing have gone into their right to receive a diploma from Mr. Fred Balden, Parkview's principal.

The last page of the seniors' high school journal is written. Now the adult world says, "Come on in . . . be a part."

Feet, feet, and more feet were on display at the sock hop, "Peanuts Bowl." Under the watchful eyes of Snoopy and Linus, students turned out for fun and exercise. There were calm feet and excited feet, and for some the wild beat of the music brought out jungle instincts. Good Grief, Charlie Brown.

Students Perform

Back stage and on stage, a feeling of excitement is part of student-produced assemblies. Stage hands hang microphones for the first all-school talent assembly as DeLaine Russell, Don Hawkins, and Bob Ollis, members of the Sing Out group, practice for their on-stage performance. Jim Martin sheds a little light on the Viking Log skit presented by Cathy Turner, Charlotte Pritchard, Ted Andrews, and Pat McCammon to open the yearbook sales campaign.

Drama Classes Stage 'Parkview A-Go-Go'

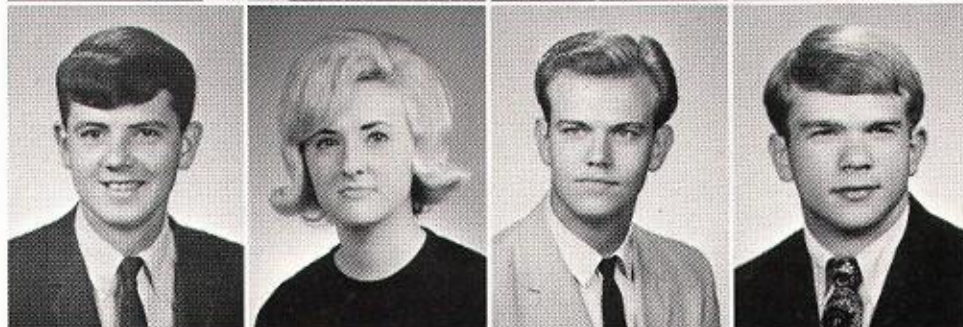

Costuming may be incomplete, settings may be in a stage of construction, but rehearsals are part of any production. Dramatics students used a night club format for their annual assembly with the acts presented for the customers of Parkview A-Go-Go. "St. George and the Dragon" had Tom Little and David Baker in title roles. A dramatic cutting from Anastasia was performed by Nancy Jacobian and Nancy Miller. Curtain opener for the show was a chorus number, "The Telephone Hour," from the Broadway musical, Bye, Bye, Birdie.

Some PHS'ers Are Really Going Places

They'd stand out in any crowd, so American Field Service student, Karen Titmus; her American sister, Kathy DeBruin (upper right); and Ann Anthony (at right), who visited Chile as a summer AFS student, are never lost even among PHS's 1900 students. Known, too, are the National Merit Scholars: Rick Hoover, Steve Hilton, Larry Hunt, Lynda Allgeier, and Fred Fulton (above), who do not always find studying serious.

How's that for spreading out a short name? I guess graduating is about the best thing that could happen. Just wait till next year then maybe I'll graduate too. It sure was fun blowing with ya but I wish I could of done better. I sure wish you could have played ball with us. I guess I won't see to much of ya anymore. Remember to save some of the SMS learning for me and I'll try to keep Parkview the way it is. The Best. Have fun in Canada but don't get in any trouble. And play good. O.K. It sure was nice knowing ya and good luck in whatever ya do.

Love ya,
 SKEETER

In Memoriam

As a light tears asunder
Night's dark curtain,
So an uplifted cross
Pierces the dark veil
Of hopelessness
And gives to all a promise
That reaches far beyond
The limits of this life.

Bright and clear were the tones for Joe Loguzzo's shining trumpet.

Dear Paula,

It has been fun
having you in orchestra
this year. I really appreciate the risks you have given me to different places. I am really going to miss you next year. You're a real sweet person.

Bye
Debbie Cox

Paula Bumps

Paula,
It's been fun
having you in a very boring class.
You helped I lived it up.
Good luck this summer. See you?
Yours,
Melody
Hans

Paula—
It has been fun having you class this year. You helped make the strangler bearable. You are a real sweet girl. You're also a semi-terrific violin player so practice hard & have fun in college when the time presents itself. See you in August!!
Rara Avis

Paula
Here I am completing my first year and you your last. I'm very glad
I got to meet you and I wish you all the luck
in the world.
your friend
Judy Harless

Paula - it has been great knowing you these past two years. I only wish we had had some class together this year. We had a great time in English, PE, and Chem. Meeting last year &
I really enjoyed it.
Good luck always and see you in your
Hans

Paula -
I'll see you in August
I'll be the cupcake
I wish you the best of luck and all the love you're a real sweet person. See you in August!!
Judy Harless
